Jaunty Junior Department Displays

Girls' School Coats

$35

THE Coats are tailored on straight mannish lines affected by the growing girls this season—the sturdy materials are trimmed with fur collars and cuffs achieving a gay swagger. Colors are bright and the furs contrast with them. The materials, well tailored and lined, are campus cloth, tweed, derona, chinchilla, and others, in sizes 10 to 17 years.

Girls' School Dresses

Sizes 6 to 12 Years

$10

Included are two-piece styles for the little girl, in flannel, vivid of color. Other styles are built upon the one-piece pattern and show self trimming or contrasting colors applied in novel ways varying in style.

Girls' School Dresses

$12.75

The materials suggest the style of these Dresses—balbriggan, jersey, flannel, twills, and cotton velveteen. Jaunty lines are featured in one and two piece styles with buttons and braiding cleverly applied.

(Jaunty Junior Dept.—Third Floor.)

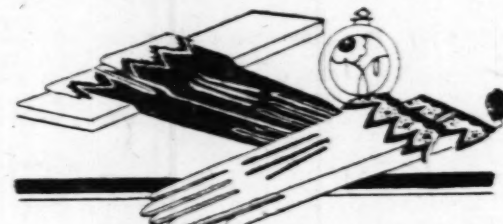

2000 Boxes of Stationery

At a Very Special Price

25c Box

AN opportunity for decisive saving on Stationery of good quality, in fabric-finish. A choice of white and various tints—each box containing 24 sheets and 24 envelopes. The low price suggests purchasing several boxes.

(Thrift Avenue—Main Floor.)

Exceptional Values in

French Gauntlets, $3.50

A SPECIAL attraction for Saturday is this offering of novelty Gauntlets, of fine French kid, with fancy cuffs that flare or turn back—ornamented with petals and applique of bright color, or embroidered in soft shades. To choose from this group is to effect unusual savings on smart Gloves.

Fabric Novelties

$1.65 Pair

Smart Gloves of imported, full-shrunk chamois-suede fabric, with fancy cuffs in short style, with embroidery and eyelets, lined in contrasting colors.

Children's Gloves

$1 to $3.50

Of kid, cape, and chamois-suede fabric, in plain and fancy styles, lined and unlined. Short Gloves and fancy gauntlet styles.

In the Misses' Store Are Sponsored

Semi-Formal Frocks

$35 to $95

THE two-piece style has won a leading place in semi-formal apparel. One sees its portrayal in velveteen and in satin. The trimming is restrained, though placed to accentuate the beauty of the fabric and the line of the Frock. Other styles in this collection are made on straight lines with smocking or banding as trimming. Sizes 14 to 18 years.

Misses' Cloth Frocks

For School or College Wear

$16.75 and $25

The styles are exceedingly varied though all adhere to a simplicity of manner. The materials fashioned straight of lines with clever trimming are heather, striped reps, satins and tweeds. Sizes 14 to 18 years.

Misses' Winter Coats

Far-Trimmed Models

$55.00

The sheer materials are used in the making of Coats which achieve a rich effect at very modest price. The colors are vivid or dark with fur collars, cuffs, and bandings in contrasting shades. Sizes 14 to 18 years.

(The Misses' Store—Third Floor.)

Our "Countess" Silk Hose

—in Service Weight, $1.95

"COUNTESS" is one of our standard silk Hose. Lustrous in texture, clear in weave, and of excellent wearing quality, it is constantly called for by women who prefer service Hose. Lisle tops, double soles and high spliced heels.

—in Chiffon Weight, $1.75

Countess chiffons have the same excellence of quality and finish observed in the service-weight Hose. They are reinforced with lisle tops, double silk soles, and high-spliced heels.

CUTS GREASE

No More Rubbing and scrubbing to get the grease off your pots and pans! Just add enough C. C. Parsons' Household Ammonia to your dish water to make it feel "slippery" and the grease disappears!

Be sure to get C. C. PARSONS' Household Ammonia. It doesn't burn water, will not "boil" or roughen the hands, and should be used wherever you use soap and water.

RULES LAID DOWN FOR CITY MARKET TENANTS

Cleanliness Emphasized in Regulations, Copies of Which Are Given to Stallholders.

The 55 stallholders and tenants of the new $1,000,000 Union Market, which will open probably Nov. 7, appeared in the Board of Public Service hearing room, last night, where they were presented with copies of a set of regulations, designed to promote efficiency and insure cleanliness in the display and handling of products.

The regulations were presented by Associate Comptroller Cunningham, representing Comptroller Nolte, and C. S. Butts, engineer, representing Director of Public Utilities Wall. Present also were Ray Alexander, the new market master, and Charles Kamp of Cleveland, technical adviser in the designing of the market.

Thirty-four regulations were set out, announcement being made that additions might be made at the suggestion of tenants. The market will open, it was set out, from 7 a. m. to 7 p. m. from Monday to Friday, inclusive, and 7 a. m. to 9 p. m. on Saturday. No goods may be moved except during these hours, and admission will be denied after the closing hours. It is further provided that no delivery wagons or trucks may be parked in the basement. Broken boxes and wrappings must be stacked at a designated point for removal by the city. All deliveries must be in the basement, or the Lucas avenue loading platform.

Leases on Monthly Basis. All leases will be on a monthly basis, and the tenant must deposit a month's rent in advance. The market master must approve all shelving, and no unsightly or shabby fixtures will be permitted. All scales must be on the counter in full view of the customers, and mention is made that public scales will be stationed at various points, where the customer may verify the weight of the purchase.

Each tenant must clean up his stand nightly. Tenants and employees must wear white aprons, and always appear clean. "Remember, the rules comment. Tobacco in any form is strictly forbidden.

EPISCOPAL BISHOP OF LONG ISLAND DIES

The Right Rev. Frederick Burgess Presided Over Second Largest Diocese in U. S.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch. NEW YORK, Oct. 16.—Bishop Frederick Burgess of the Episcopal Diocese of Long Island, the second largest Protestant Episcopal diocese in the United States, died of heart disease last night in the rectory of the Cathedral of the Incarnation, Garden City, L. I., where he made his home. He was 72 years old and had been Bishop for 24 years.

His four sons were at his bedside when he died. Bishop Burgess was seized with a severe heart attack in February and was seriously ill for several months. He slowly regained his strength and early in September he confirmed several classes. He was planning to confirm another class when he was again stricken about two weeks ago.

The Rev. Dr. Ernest M. Stires, rector of St. Thomas Church, New York, who was elected Bishop Coadjutor to assist Bishop Burgess at the last convocation of the Episcopal Church on Long Island, will assume the duties as Bishop of the Long Island diocese.

Bishop Burgess was born in Providence, R. I. He attended Brown University, where he received his degree in 1873. After leaving Brown University he attended the General Theological Seminary in New York and then studied for a year in Oxford University in England. Cambridge University gave him the LL. D. degree in 1920.

He was ordained a Deacon in 1874 by the Bishop of New Hampshire and a year later, after he had been ordained a priest by the late Bishop Clark, he became deacon in charge of St. Mark's Mission in Mendham, N. J., where he remained a year.

He was chosen rector of Grace Church, Brooklyn, in 1888 and was in charge there when he was elected Bishop of the Long Island diocese, Nov. 21, 1901. He continued as rector of Grace Church until he was consecrated Jan. 15, 1902, by Bishops Potter, Doane and Davies.

Bishop Burgess held strong views on the problems of the day and he never failed to express them in vigorous terms when the occasion arose. In 1910 he took a decided stand for local option, but at the same time he said he was opposed to State-wide prohibition. He favored the control of the liquor traffic by the State government.

HERETIC BISHOP MAY BRING SUIT IN U. S. COURT IN EAST

Next Move for William Montgomery Brown, Following Dismissal of Plea in New Orleans.

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 15.—Court action in some northern or eastern state to compel the House of Bishops of the Protestant Episcopal Church to restore his seat, is indicated here as the plea of former Bishop William Montgomery Brown, following dismissal here of his plea in Federal Court for a writ to restrain him from unseating him.

Federal Judge Louis H. Burns, holding that the Court was without jurisdiction, yesterday denied the former prelate's petition for an injunction to prevent enforcement of a deposition sentence pronounced upon him by the Presiding Bishop last Monday, after affirmation of his conviction by a church court on charges of heresy and rebellious conduct.

While nothing definite could be learned of the former Bishop's future plans, friends who had supported him in his fight here to retain his status as a Bishop said that he had discussed with them the advisability of pressing the issue in another court, and Joseph W. Sharts, attorney for Brown, said that he had advised Brown to seek action in New York.

SHENANDOAH FUNERAL BILLS RETURNED, MARKED 'NO FUNDS'
Officials at Lakehurst Had Allowed
$150 Each for Burial of Men Killed in Disaster.

By the Associated Press.
LAKEHURST, N. J., Oct. 16.— Bills for funeral expenses of many of the 14 men who lost their lives in the crash of the navy dirigible Shenandoah were returned to Lakehurst today by the Navy Department, with the notation that the department had no funds with which to meet the obligations. No Government funds are available at the air station for this purpose.

The sum of $150, it was said at the air station, was allowed for the burial of each man, and this was expended at the scene of the disaster in preparing the bodies for burial and transporting them to Lakehurst.
Bills for additional expenses incidental to the burial of a number of the men were sent to the air station by the bereaved families and in turn were forwarded to the Navy Department at Washington.

Oil Heat Without Great Expense

Without electricity, with no moving parts to get out of order—without any waste whatever to your present furnace you can now have all the comforts of heat at a fraction the cost formerly required. The Oliver Burner burns right on the grates of your furnace. It has been brought to a degree of perfection that it is now a STANDARD by the Underwriters Laboratories, Inc.

SEE THIS Efficient Burner

Visit our demonstration room today. See the Oliver Burner in operation. See how perfectly it is regulated by a valve adjustment. Prices are amazingly low. Thousands of successful installations in all parts of the world prove the heating power of the Oliver.

Now is the time to switch to modern heat. Be done forever with coal burning, dirty ashes, furnace tending, and the expense of high priced fuel. The Oliver is the one burner that makes it possible to have all the comforts of oil heat without a price penalty. Come in today, and see it in operation.

Boyd's Subway's Great Double-Header Clothing Sale

The greatest quantity of clothing the Subway has ever assembled for a Double-Header Sale is ready for your selection at these low prices.

By selling two garments instead of one we can reduce the price even lower than the Subway's unusually low prices. The Double-Header Sale may be two Suits, two Overcoats, or a Suit and Overcoat from the same price group or from two different price groups.

When a sale is made from two different groups the price of each will be one-half the double-header price.

Two persons may each make a single selection, provided one sale is made for both.

INA CLAIRE SEEKS DIVORCE

Real Life Not So Funny as on Stage; Says Husband Struck Her.
By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Oct. 16.—Ina Claire, comedienne, once the star in
"Grounds for Divorce," has filed suit for divorce from James Whittaker, former Chicago newspaper man and music critic, charging desertion and cruelty.

They were married six years ago. It was "a jazz marriage," the actress told a dramatic critic while playing here.

The actress' bill, filed through her attorneys, since she and Whittaker are in New York, charged that her husband left July 14, 1923, while they were occupying a honeymoon apartment of three rooms on Chicago's North Side.
Whittaker with great violence and force ejected her from the apartment, she charged. Two weeks before, the bill continued, her husband struck her in the face, while they were vacationing at Toma-hawk Lake, Wis.

HELD FOR KILLING MAN WITH HIS AUTO

Henry Fortner Named in Coroner's Verdict as Driver Who Struck Harry Kearney.

Henry Fortner of 1738 Chouteau avenue was ordered held in $20,000 bond today after he had been named by a coroner's jury in a homicide verdict returned in the death of Harry Kearney, Missouri Pacific crossing watchman.

Kearney, who was 55 years old,
and lived at 4563 Cadet avenue,
was run down and killed by a speeding automobile at Mackin-and Manchester avenues at 5:30
a. m. yesterday.

Fortner, an engineer for the Missouri Rolling Mill Co., admitted yesterday, police reported, that he was the driver of the car. He did not take the stand today.

Charged by Truck Chauffeur.
The arrest of Fortner, who is 23 years old, was brought about through the vigilance of Louis
Vazis, chauffeur for the Kroger Grocery and Baking Co., who pursued four robbers after they had taken $12,000 in a holdup at the Kroger offices on Sept. 11 last,
and who outdistanced him after a chase in which they fired ten shots into his coupe.

Vazis testified today that he was driving west on Manchester avenue when Kearney was struck by a Star automobile just ahead of Vazis' truck. Vazis said both his machine and the Star were traveling about 30 miles an hour.

"I chased him but he got away," Vazis testified. "I did notice, however that the rear license plate on the Star was hanging by one corner."

Later in the morning I saw a Star standing in front of 4510 Oakland avenue. The license plate was hanging by one corner. The radiator and one fender and headlight were smashed. I figured it was the same machine and I called a policeman."

License Number Traced.
The license number was traced to Fortner. At his home his wife said he had gone to East St. Louis and he was arrested there in a rooming house at 618 St. Louis avenue. He told the police that after realizing that he had struck a man he became excited, called the rolling mill where he worked and reported he was ill. His excitement really made him ill, he said, and he abandoned his car
because he could no longer drive it.
Vazis' estimate that the Star was

FREEDOMERS' MEETING AT CLAYTON OPEN TO PUBLIC

Plan for Expansion of City by Absorbing County Will Be Discussed Tonight.

Hugh K. Wagner, a city member of the Board of Freeholders, will explain and discuss his three resolutions pending before the Scope and Plan Committee of the board,
at a public meeting of the committee at Clayton Courthouse at 8 o'clock tonight.

The committee is desirous of public attendance at the meeting in order to have information on the subjects disseminated.
Wagner introduced one resolution under each of the three general schemes which the board can follow in drafting a plan for metropolitan expansion. He prefers and will argue for the scheme involving absorption of the county
by the city.

GIRL AND HER FIANCE ARE FOUND MURDERED

Wisconsin Couple Slain When
in Auto on County Road; Buried in Leaves.

By the Associated Press.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Oct. 18.—The first arrest in the hunt for the slayer of Madeline Latimer, 19-year-old Milwaukee girl, and her fiancé, James Sears, 25, of Kenosha, whose bodies were found in a field near Kenosha, was made early today, when Milwaukee and Kenosha deputies took Howard J. Pratt of Milwaukee into custody. The deputies said they thought Pratt could throw some light on the case. Pratt was arrested as he entered his home here. Deputies lay in wait for him for several hours. Pratt is a conductor on the North Shore Electric Railway.

Two other young men were taken into custody by Sheriff Williams, who said that both had been paying attention to Miss Latimer within a year and that one of them was married.

Sister Tells of Threats.
The slain girl's twin sister, Evelyn, said that her sister had been in terror of a Milwaukee man for several days. "If you don't lay off Jimmy, I'll get you both," the man threatened recently, according to Evelyn.

The girl's friends said she had spoken of receiving frequent threats from a girl who had been disputing her claim on the affections of Sears.

The bodies were found near a highway north of Kenosha, each with two bullet wounds in the head. From an automobile, Sheriff Williams followed a trail to a point 300 feet from the road, where the bodies were found, under a mound of matted grass, leaves and branches.

The roadster gave evidence of a terrific struggle and one of the bullets fired had struck the emergency brake.

Watch and Money Missing.
Sears had driven to Milwaukee early Wednesday night and the pair had returned to Kenosha, where they visited Miss Latimer's sisters. Later they started to return to Milwaukee. Sears drew $25 from his place of business and was known to have carried a valuable watch. Both watch and money were missing from his body.

ANTHRACITE OPERATORS DENY MINERS' EXTORTION CHARGES

Chairman Warriner Gives Figures
on Profits Made and Wages Paid to Workmen.

HARRISBURG, Pa., Oct. 18.—Samuel D. Warriner, chairman of the anthracite operators' conference, takes vigorous exception to charges of extortion and butchery made against the operators. In an address before the Pennsylvania State Chamber of Commerce last night, he answered statements made by John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers, at the convention of the American Federation of Labor. Lewis charged that the operators extorted $16,000,000 to $20,000,000 annually from the public and that the industry had "butchered" more than 1,200,000 employees since 1870. Declaring the union leader's remarks were so far removed from the truth as to approach libel and actual falsehood, Warriner said that the Lehigh Coal and Navigation Co., of which he is president, had realized only $3.63 a ton for coal produced in August this year, as compared with $6.14 a ton for August, 1924.

He gave some figures as to miners' wages. Of 1136 contract miners on the payroll of his company in 1924, 382 earned more than $2000 in a year and 152 earned more than $3500. These men earned daily from $12 to $14. Only 52 of the whole number earned less than $2000 and none earned under $1500.

"The common or most unskilled adult labor above ground is paid a minimum of 57.8 cents per hour," he added. Warriner said official statistics showed that since 1870 fatal mine accidents had totaled only 22,745, and of the nonfatal accidents 80 per cent were trivial.

ZIEGFELD TO BUILD IN CHICAGO

Plans $1,000,000 Theater; Complaints of Scalpers.

CHICAGO, Oct. 18.—Erection of a $1,000,000 theater on Michigan avenue within a year is promised by Florenz Ziegfeld, the producer, who plans to inaugurate in it an annual musical production comparable to the Follies. The theater will be known as "The Ziegfeld," and construction will start as soon as the site is bought and contracts let. The project will be financed without outside help. Ziegfeld says Chicago theaters in which his productions run are too small and ticket scalpers are charging $11 for tickets, for which the theater gets $4.40.

religious liberty, industrial freedom, especially relief from too
many laws were urged by Henry Jost, former Prosecuting Attorney and Democratic Congressman of Kansas City, and in an address before the Brotherhood of the Webster Groves Presbyterian Church last night, he urged the evil of multiplication
of laws in America.
During the spread of crime, just
the disregard of home ties
said: "I am not talking about trivial subjects as the length of skirts, pulled hose or infractions
of municipal laws, which excite so much of our discussion. We'll never get any headway till there is a recognition of a God in this world and acceptance of the Ten Commandments, which are the basis of all laws. I do not mean that shall become biots and slaves
of a superstition that marked the Middle Ages.
Incidentally with our moral degeneration we have got to put reason and sanity in our management. A mania for complex laws has developed in our 48 Legislatures, Congress and innumerable City Councils. The American people are to make laws to break down. There isn't a line of industrial endeavor now touched by statute or regulated by some municipal bureau. We even have clerks making regulations to control our legislators.
Attitude of Business.
We have come to the point that there is not a single individual in this country or anywhere else who can do his duty without breaking some law. It is an absolute impossibility.
Laws are as strong and no weaker than the juries we call to enforce them. The mental attitude of people from whom juries are drawn is the controlling factor.
If any 10 business men and their taxes have done all but the industry from the land.
In 1924 there was one Federal service employee to every 202 citizens. Add to that number the multitude of others drawing wages and you get a feeble impression of the tremendous cost of Federal Government. The burden of the states and municipalities have kept pace with and even exceeded the national cost. Laws so numerous that nobody can enforce them or know how to enforce them.
There is no free business in this country any more; there is no freedom of labor in this country any more. There is some official looking over your shoulder and telling you to account at the end of every transaction. Until you rid of that there will be nothing resembling free business."
Supports Vaclavin.
Just quoted with approval the speech of Samuel Vaclavin that expressed at once and repeat laws passed by it for the last 10 years, then proceeded to take a vacation for another 10 years. He concluded:
"Only by bringing this wild-eyed,
hallucinating Congress and all other relative incubators to a complete halt, so they can hatch no more, can we reclaim the jewel of human liberty of 1776.
The Government has put everybody in a position of breaking laws, and man in the jury box, searching own heart, finds himself weak and what shall be done with the law before him."
Ely, former Assistant Attorney General, presided as President of the Brotherhood Club
and had as his guest former District Attorney James Carroll.

Oppose Cotton Crop Report.
BOSTON, Oct. 14.—On the ground that the early season estimates of the size of the cotton crop are leading to the cotton manufacturing industry and to the cotton weavers, the National Association of Cotton Manufacturers, in annual meeting here, today voted to urge Congress to have such estimates
by any Government agency discontinued.

PAGE'S DOUBTS ABOUT THE PRESIDENT'S STAMINA
More War-Time Letters and Cablegrams of American Ambassador—Afraid to "Let Himself Go" When Bernstorff Was Sent Home.
THIS is the thirteenth installment of a series of unpublished letters written by Walter Hines Page, war-time Ambassador to Great Britain, to President Wilson. The letters are edited by Burton J. Hendrick, who, in his preparation of them, consulted various leaders, political and diplomatic, with whom Ambassador Page came into contact.

Edited by BURTON J. HENDRICK.
Copyright, 1925.
(From Ambassador Page's Memorandum Book.)
Dec. 31, 1916.
I WRITE this memorandum (for myself only) with the hope of revisiting it by the light of subsequent events; and I write it only to record my present fear, which I hope to have reason to abandon.

At the beginning of Germany's onslaught on civilization—when Belgium was invaded, or, later, when the Lusitania was sunk, the President had given a sign or spoken a word, the whole American people and American sentiment would have called Germany down quick and short and gone to war if necessary.

But the President had silenced and suppressed them by his making the artificial quality of neutrality a positive virtue and quality. He suppressed discussion as far as he could. This made him for the Germans in the United States, and Bernstorff took command (to a large degree) of American sentiment. He threatened and the President feared. It has been a regime of fear of the Germans ever since—see the much greater effluence of tone shown in notes to Germany than in notes to Great Britain. Thus Bernstorff has waxed more and more daring and more and more influential.

CONGRESS SEEKS ALL THE GLORY AS TAX REDUCER

This $100,000,000 Boost of Administration Figures Would Be Attained by Exempting Small Incomes

WASHINGTON, Oct. 16.—Congress appears to be ready to reach out for all the political glory possible as a reducer of taxes.

The Coolidge administration will have its hands full restraining Congress from making too great a cut in Government revenues.

That's the outlook as the Ways and Means Committee prepares for its sessions next week to consider a new revenue bill.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Oct. 16.—The American Federation of Labor, at its concluding session today, voiced its condemnation of the transportation act and the Railroad Labor Board.

A congressional investigation of the Bell Telephone system was urged.

MOTOR BUS ASSOCIATION TO OPPOSE FEDERAL CONTROL
Resolution Adopted by Railroad Commissioners Will Be Resisted Before Congress.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Oct. 16.—A proposal to put all motor busses operating in interstate commerce under Federal control, adopted yesterday by the National Association of Railroad and Utilities Commissioners, brought speedy opposition from affected interests.

Jerome Pandell, executive secretary of the District of Columbia Commercial Motor Vehicle Association, who attended the commissioners' meeting, announced he would immediately call a conference of operators of motor busses to plan a national fight against congressional acceptance of the association's proposal.

FRENCH PERPLEXED BY AMERICAN AIRMEN
Squadron Operating in Morocco Likely to Be Given Leave of Absence or Disbanded.

Special Cable to the Post-Dispatch and New York World.
Copyright, 1925, by the Press and Pulitzer Publishing Co., New York.
PARIS, Oct. 16.—The American air squadron operating in Morocco against the Rifians may be disbanded, according to a report today. Official reticence makes it impossible to confirm or contradict this, but one aviation expert in Paris is pleading with the Government not to disband the squadron, but simply to give the Americans three months' leave, as had already been decided.

The reason given for releasing the American aviators until spring is the rainy season, which it is declared, renders operations impossible. In reality, although the War Office refuses to make a statement on the subject, it is believed the American State Department's criticism of the American fighters influenced the French Government.

ITALY PREPARED TO NEGOTIATE ON FINAL DEBT TERMS
Finance Minister Says Mission Will Not Be Influenced by Temporary French Agreement.
TRUSTS AMERICAN SPIRIT OF JUSTICE
Declares He Will Demonstrate With Figures the Financial Condition of His Nation.

By the Associated Press.
ROME, Oct. 16.—Count Volpi, the Finance Minister, who will head Italy's war debt mission to the United States, has told the Associated Press correspondent that the Italian Government is ready to negotiate with the United States a definite and final, and not a temporary, agreement regarding the Italian debt to America.

"Italy," he said yesterday, "is ready to follow the lines laid down by the American Government in the agreements concluded with Great Britain and Belgium and the negotiations with France. The Italian Government has not been influenced and will not be influenced by the provisional agreement concluded by France."

"I will demonstrate with facts and figures the real economic and financial conditions of our people to the American Government, trusting to the spirit of justice of the Americans. There are historical ties between Italy and the United States such as surely will outweigh today's computation of debt and credit."

By RICHARD L. STOKES.
Before my God, I might not this believe Without the sensible and true
avouch
Of mine own eyes!

TURNING up the collar of his khaki tunic against the eager, nipping air of Elsinore, Private Francisco remarked: "Tis bitter cold!" Private Bernardo shifted his rifle, stamped putted legs and retorted: "Get thee to bed, Francisco!"

"Holla, Bernardo!" interrupted
Horatio, as he joined the sentinels.
The philosopher pulled down his gray fedora, tightened a white muffler about his throat, and drew his topcoat closer about him. A ghost suggested this moment to saunter forth upon the ramparts. The specter was wrapped in an inky
cape, and atop his snowy tresses was jauntily perched an army of flier's cap.

By heaven I charge thee,
Speak!—shoutest Horatio, snatching
out an automatic and training it upon the stately ectoplasm, which betrayed no astonishment whatever, and strolled away in disdain.

Curtain Calls for Each Scene.
As the curtain fell upon the evening's last night at the American Theater, the big audience sat in stunned silence, and the feeling as the startling new version of Shakespeare's "Hamlet" might have been expressed in the exclamation of honest Bottom: "Bless me, how you art translated!" Following a recent experiment at the Kingsway Theater in London, and an earlier
one with "Cymbeline" at the Repertory Theater in Birmingham, Mr.
Mantell was celebrating his forty-ninth and farewell season on the stage by presenting "Hamlet" in twentieth century attire, for the first time in America.

But it was only the initial scene which met with so astounded a reception. Thereafter every episode had its curtain calls, and the applause mounted until it was the most prolonged and enthusiastic the writer has ever heard at a performance of this tragedy. In fact,
the play became alive and human
with an unprecedented intensity: it suddenly drew miles closer to the audience, like a mountain actually ascending after having been viewed from afar with field glasses.

Polonius Has a Monocle.
In the ensuing court scene, King
Claudius appeared in full dress, with a purple riband across his shirt front. Queen Gertrude, also unadorned, wore a green evening gown, a pearl necklace and a black shawl. Polonius towered majestically in a Prince Albert coat, with the gray ribbon of a decoration
about his neck, and toyed airily
with a monocle. Hamlet's "suit of solemn black" was a dinner jacket, a garment affected likewise
by Laertes, Horatio and a group of male courtiers. The ladies of the palace, many with bobbed hair, were all in evening dress. A page attended in the scarlet uniform, thrusting buttons and tambourine

cap of a bellhop.

Hamlet shot his cuffs, adjusted
his vest and plunged into the first soliloquy—"O, that this too, too solid flesh would melt!"—with such effect, despite his garb, as to win two curtain calls. In the third scene Miss Ophelia tripped into view like a charming girl on the way to a garden party. She wore a big hat, a pink summery dress of lace which fell just below the knees, and silver slippers. Polonius pronounced "costume" as he exclaimed: "Angels and ministers of grace, defend us!" A dark topcoat was tossed aside with the words: "Be thou a spirit of health or goblin damn'd!" And the luxurious one stripped off a pair of white kid gloves as he continued: "Say, why is this?" wherefore? what should we do?" Horatio and Marcellus, in the meantime, watchfully covered the apparition with pistol and repeating rifle. The walking stick which hung over Hamlet's arm turned out to be a sword cane. As he adjoined his companions to silence, he touched a button and a blade leapt forth.

The arrival of the Players in the second act caused a ripple of laughter. The First Actor wore a checked gray suit, a clamorous necktie and a beard of Ghetto design. The Player Queen, all in brown, with a large hat and tan oxfords, carried a valise. Six men attended them, in garb of thespsian violence. The Play itself summoned the only "costume" of the evening, and the velvet and brocade stood forth in striking contrast to the present-day attire of the royal family and nobles.

Covers King With Six-Shooter.
Ophelia went mad in a pink ki-mona, lacy negligee and bedroom slippers. Laertes, coatless, with vest thrown open and tie unfastened, shouted his menace at Claudius while aiming a six-shooter at the monarch. Hamlet stabbed Polonius with his sword-cane. The first grave-digger smoked a pipe and wore overalls. Horatio changed from a soft hat to a derby for the funeral of Ophelia. Hamlet and Laertes fought their duel with foils, in their shirt sleeves, with collars and ties removed; and the King fell dying in a swirl of swallow-tails.

After the first shock of surprise,
the performance proceeded on its way in an unexpectedly absorbing and thrilling fashion. The tragedy appeared to burst the elements of stagnant commentaries and classical renown, and to become a thing of human beings instead of famous puppets. The comedy passages particularly—such as the pomposities of Polonius and the maudlin pleasantries of the grave-diggers—seemed suddenly no longer literature but contemporary fun.
The effect, in sum, was that of a statue come to life.

And why not? "Hamlet" is constructed of such everlasting human emotions that the entire action might plausibly take place today.
Even the ghost would have modern sanction, more or less scientific, from Sir Oliver Lodge. Neither did the black verse appear still-lived; Shakespeare, for all the opulence of his vocabulary and the depth of his emotion and reflection, used the cadence of spoken and not written language. The talk of the characters last night seemed different not in kind but merely in degree from the diction we should all speak if we were masters instead of babblers of our native tongue.

KOENIGSBERG QUILTS OPERA COMMITTEE

Unable to Serve Longer on Productions Body—42 Directors Elected.

Max Koenigsberg, who was chairman of the Executive Productions Committee of the Municipal Opera
in the past season, has announced that he will be unable to serve on that committee next year. He requested yesterday, at the annual meeting of the Municipal Theater Association at Hotel Statler that someone else be chosen for this work when the directors of the Municipal Theater Association meet next Wednesday to choose the Executive Productions Committee for 1938, and to elect officers.

Koenigsberg's withdrawal was made necessary, he said, by the demands of his work with the Famous-Barr company, of which he is promotion manager. He will continue to be a director of the Municipal Theater Association, of which he is a charter member. He was vice president of the Advertising Club in 1936, and as such was active in developing the plans for the Municipal Theater. After the concrete theater structure was placed, he did pioneer work for the first summer season of popular musical productions, thus starting the enterprise which has now run through seven summer seasons, and which has become St. Louis' most widely known amusement institution.

The annual meeting of the Municipal Theater Association was held yesterday at Hotel Statler.
Forty-two St. Louisans were elected to the board of directors of the organization which sponsors
the annual municipal opera season
at the open air theater in Forest Park.

Those elected directors were Eugene Angert, Sigmund Baer, Paul Beisman, G. A. Buder, Martin J. Collins, Robert D. Corlett, Mona B. Crutcher, Nelson Cunliff,
Walter S. Donaldson, H. Worthington Eddy, Charles F. Hatfield, Edward Hadden, M. E. Holderness, Henry W. Kiel, George S.
Johns, Arthur Kocian, Max Koenigsberg, Fred C. Lake Sr., Thomas
H. Lovelace, Morton May, Frank
M. Mayfield, C. F. G. Meyer, Col.
Joseph G. Miller, Mayor Miller,
August Niederluecke, Fred W.
Pape, H. J. Pettengill, E. Lansing
Ray, Elsey Roberts, Otto E. Rugk,
David E. Russell, Harry L. Salis-

Spehrer, Ernest W. Stix, John
Strauch, F. A. Sudholt, Charles M.
Talbert, Ralf Toensfeldt, F. W. A.
Vesper, Walter B. Weisenburger
and Paul J. Wiseman.

With the exception of Mayfield and Strauch, all of the directors elected yesterday were members of last year's board. Mayfield resigned from the directorate in 1937 when he became associated with a Denver department store.
He recently returned to St. Louis
as president of the Scruggs, Vandervoort & Barney Co. The present term will be Strauch's first as a director of the association.

The newly elected board will meet to elect officers of the association and to choose members of the 1938 Executive Productions Committee.

Lecture on Mind Management—"Management of Minds" will be the subject of an address by Dr.
E. J. Swift, professor of psychology at Washington University, at a dinner meeting of the St. Louis section of American Society of Mechanical Engineers, at Annex
Hotel, this evening.

URGES BIBLE READING IN PUBLIC SCHOOLS

Evangelist Williams Assails
Modernists and Cigarettes
in Sermon.

Howard S. Williams, the Mississippi lay evangelist, again struck a responsive chord with the 2000 persons in his tabernacle at 1941 Delmar boulevard last night when he made a plea for the reading of the Bible in the public schools through the injection of a clause in the Constitution.

His declaration, "If I was running for Congress or the Senate, I'd make that my first, last and all platform," was applauded warmly.

"I am not here to tell you that the way to Heaven is through the Catholic Church, or the Jewish Church, or the Presbyterian Church," he said, speaking from the text found in the Bible, "For it is time to seek the Lord."

"If you believe in God's word you can go to Heaven through any of them," continued the evangelist. "It is salvation I'm talking about. I wish we didn't have any doctrine on our heads. I wish the Catholic and the Presbyterian and the Baptist alike would just claim Jesus Christ king of kings and lord of lords. That's salvation."

Assails Modernists.

"The Bible is the only book that will take sorrow or sin out of the heart," Happy Turner sang tonight. "Sin is to Blame For It All." The only way you can find out about it is through the Bible. I can't see how anybody with common sense and the love of God can object to the Bible being read in the schools."

"There are many traitors in the churches," he continued, referring to church members who will perjure God's name to be taken irreverently in their presence and laugh at dirty jokes. "If you take God's name in vain and gamble, it is time for you to seek the Lord."

Touching on modernists again, he said, "I don't believe Freud ever was born again. I don't believe he knows anything about the Christian religion and the new birth."

Cites Own Conversion.

"If the people out there and on the streets can't see in me that I am a Christian, I am a failure," he said. "If Henry Ford, with all his millions and material success, rejects Christ and goes to hell, he will be a monumental failure. I don't know whether he is a Christian or not. I am just using that as an example."

"A lot of men in this town may be heavyweights here, but they will be featherweights there. I just know that our nation's saved and that's me. When a man has sinned he must come back to God, and I did."

"A lot of men tell me they can't keep all the commandments. Well, I command them to keep 'em. If you'd get up here and tell the truth about it, some of your wives would file suit for divorce tomorrow."

Telling of some of his own deceptions before his conversion, the former publisher said: "I claimed I had $600 circulation on my paper when I knew I had only $600. It was just a plain, ordinary thief."

Clarettes as a hindrance to health and Christian influence were mentioned last night. "A manufacturer advertises his brand as 'they satisfy.' That's the biggest lie ever told. They don't. I tried it. The only thing that satisfies is Jesus Christ. The Holy Spirit deserves a healthy body."

Law Enforcement Wrong.

"Because with God's help, I quit smoking cigarettes. I am able to keep my voice. Only three times in something like 1600 talks, often as many as five or six a day, has my voice come back on me. And God Almighty did it. We've got to help God a little bit. Now don't go out there and say, 'Mr. Williams said if you smoke cigarettes you'll go to hell.' I didn't say any such thing. I say they injure your health and harm your Christian influence."

Pointing out that there can be no reformation until there is regeneration, the evangelist said the United States Government was "up against a stone wall." "All the arms and power in the world won't change men until the spirit of God comes. The Government's method is all wrong on law enforcement. It can't be done except through Jesus Christ."

$250 LACLED GIFT TO POLICE

Service at Explosion Deserves Reward, Head of Company Says.

A check for $250, payable to the Police Relief Association was received yesterday by Allen C. Orrick, president of the Police Board, from the Lacled Gas Light Co. in recognition of the services of police following an explosion Oct. 8 at the company's building at Elm and Olive streets, in which four persons lost their lives and more than 45 were injured.

A letter from George B. Evans, president of the company, which accompanied the check, commended the work and deportment of police and approved Chief of Police Gerk's mobilization plan for emergencies. "While we have been pretty hard hit by this accident, we feel that such fine service deserves reward," the letter states.

144 Cholera Patients in Manila.

By The Associated Press.

MANILA, Oct. 14.—While cholera cases were decreasing in Manila, reports from adjacent provinces show eight deaths and 11 new cases in the last 24 hours. In Manila hospitals 144 cholera patients are confined, four of them are in a serious condition.

URGES BIBLE READING IN PUBLIC SCHOOLS

Evangelist Williams Assails
Modernists and Cigarettes
in Sermon.

Howard S. Williams, the Mississippi lay evangelist, again struck a responsive chord with the 2000 persons in his tabernacle at 5940 Delmar boulevard last night when he made a plea for the reading of the Bible in the public schools, through the injection of a clause in the Constitution.

His declaration, "If I was running for Congress or the Senate, I'd make that my first, last and all platform," was applauded warmly.

"I am not here to tell you that the way to Heaven is through the Catholic Church, or the Jewish Church, or the Presbyterian Church," he said, speaking from the text found in Hosea, "For it is time to seek the Lord."

"If you believe in God's word you can go to Heaven through any of them," continued the evangelist. "It is a matter of faith, not of works. I wish we didn't have any doctrines or creeds. I wish the Catholic and the Presbyterian and the Baptist alike would just claim Jesus Christ king of kings and lord of lords. That's salvation."

Assails Modernists.

"The Bible is the only book that will take sorrow or sin out of the heart," Happy Turner sang tonight. "It is to blame for it all." The only way you can find out about it is through the Bible. I can't see how anybody with common sense and the love of God can object to the Bible being read in the schools.

"There are many traitors in the churches," he continued, referring to church members who will permit God's name to be taken irreverently in their presence and laugh at dirty jokes. "If you take God's name in vain and gamble, it is time for you to seek the Lord." Touching on modernists again, he said, "I don't believe Posidick ever was born again. I don't believe he knows anything about the Christian religion and the new birth."

Cites Own Conversion.

"If the people out there and on the streets can't see in me that I am a Christian, I am a failure. If Henry Ford, with all his millions and material success, rejects Christ and goes to hell, he will be a monumental failure. I don't know whether he is a Christian or not. I am just using that as an example. A lot of men in this town may be heavyweights there. I just know that one person's saved and that's me. When a man has sinned he must come back to God, and I did."

A lot of men tell me they can't keep all the commandments. Which commandment can't you keep? If you'd get up here and tell the truth about it, some of your wives would file suit for divorce tomorrow."

Telling of some of his own deceptions before his conversion, the former publisher said: "I claimed I had $6000 circulation on my paper when I knew I had only $600. I was just a plain, ordinary thief."

Cigarettes as a hindrance to health and Christian influence were mentioned last night. "A manufacturer advertises his brand as 'they satisfy.' That's the biggest lie ever told. They satisfy I tried it. The only thing that satisfies is Jesus Christ. The Holy Spirit deserves a healthy body."

Law Enforcement Wrong.

"Because, with God's help, I quit smoking cigarettes. I am able to keep my voice. Only three times in something like 1400 talks, often as many as five or six a day, has my voice gone back on me. And God Almighty did it. We've got to help God a little bit. Now, don't go out there and say, 'Mr. Williams said if you smoke cigarettes you'll go to hell.' I didn't say any such thing. I say they injure your health and harm your Christian influence."

Pointing out that there can be no reformation until there is regeneration, the evangelist said the United States Government was "up against a stone wall." "All the arms and power in the world won't change men until the spirit of God comes. The Government's method at all wrong. The Government can't be done except through Jesus Christ."

$250 LACLED GIFT TO POLICE

Service at Explosion Deserves Reward, Head of Company Says. A check for $250, payable to the Police Relief Association was received yesterday by Allen C. Orick, president of the Police Board, from the Laclede Gas Light Co., in recognition of the services of police following an explosion Oct. 8 at the company's building at Eleventh and Olive streets, in which four persons lost their lives and more than 43 were injured.

A letter from George B. Evans, president of the company, which accompanied the check, commended the work and deportment of police and approved Chief of Police Gerk's mobilization plan for emergencies. "While we have been pretty hard hit by this accident, we feel that such fine service deserves reward," the letter states.

144 Cholera Patients in Manila.

MANILA, Oct. 16.—While cholera cases were decreasing in Manila, reports from adjacent provinces show eight deaths and 11 new cases in the last 24 hours. In Manila hospitals 144 cholera patients are confined, four of them are in a serious condition.

$80,000 LOSS RESULTS FROM TORCH EXPLOSION

Furniture Finisher Knocked Over Torch When Trying to Put Out Fire on His Sleeve. Fire resulting from the explosion of a heating torch caused damage estimated at $80,000 to the building and contents of the National House Furnishing Co., Nineteenth and D streets, Granite City, yesterday afternoon.

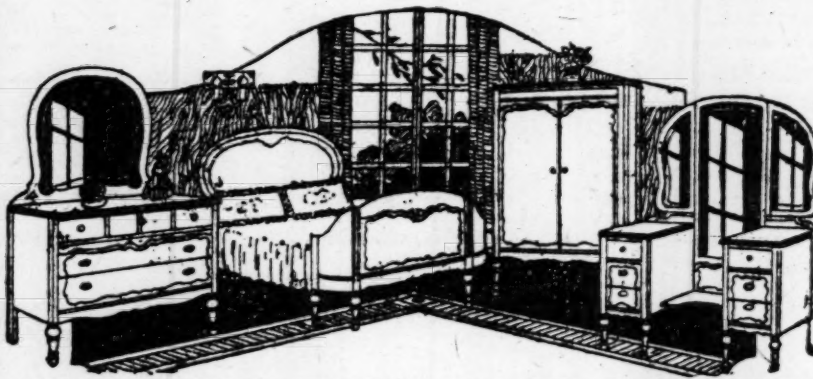

Norman Meyer, a furniture finisher, was at work on the top floor of the building a three-story brick structure, at 5:30 p. m., applying the torch to furniture in a finishing process, when his shirt sleeve became ignited. In attempting to extinguish the flames, Meyer knocked over the torch and it exploded.

Flames summoned from Madison and Vanuise, along with two Granite City companies, confined the flames to the third floor and the damage resulted chiefly from the damage to the stock of the company.

The fire was under control within an hour. L. R. Burter and another, who were in the store, escaped without injury. The damage to the stock of the company was $80,000. The store, owner of the building, was $12,000. The building was covered by insurance.

With the exception of Meyer, who suffered burns on his arm, no one was injured in the blast.

HOTEL VANDERBILT IN NEW YORK SOLD

Purchaser Is Present Manager and Associated Group—Price Not Announced.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch, NEW YORK, Oct. 14.—The Hotel Vanderbilt, Thirty-fourth street and Park avenue, has been purchased by Walton Harper Marshall, for 14 years its managing director, and his associates, Charles D. Wetmore, E. L. Baylies and William Astor Chandler.

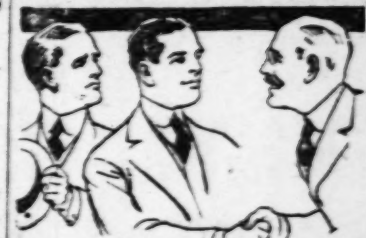

Associated with this group in the purchase are Thomas B. Yulie, president of the Tobacco Products Co.; P. S. A. Franklin, president of the Columbia Gas and Electric Co.; Matthew Bush, president of the American International Co.; and E. J. Kulas, president of the Otis Steel Co.

The price was not announced. Land and building were assessed jointly at $4,000,000 on last year's tax rolls.

The Vanderbilt heirs in selling this property parted with the site of the original home of Alfred Gayne Vanderbilt. The property later was the home of the Princeton Club and Marshall, in 1911, became director of the hotel which was then erected.

Marshall, who announced that there would be no change in the policy or operation, is 47 years old and received his hotel training under the late George Boldt, proprietor of the Waldorf-Astoria. He is a great-grandson of John Marshall, Chief Justice of the United States.

ANGELINE WALKED TOO FAR
Boy, 14, Thinks, Comparing Her With Modern Girl.

ROCKFORD, Ill. Oct. 14.—A 14-year-old boy, comparing his girl friend, Angelina, with the modern girl, said he thought she was one of the worst.

He was one of 24,750 school boys who helped to answer the question of parent and teacher. What shall the children read? What shall the children read? What shall the children read?

TELLS OF BIG GAME HUNTING ON YUKON

Dr. J. Lewis Hutton Returns
From Six Weeks' Journey
in Alaska Mountains.

Taking a vacation hunting trip for big game in the Cassiar Mountains of the Yukon and British Columbia, Dr. J. Lewis Hutton, of 2400 California avenue, achieved his wish for temporary escape from a surgeon's constant contact with people. For 45 days his only companions were a friend from Williamsport, Pa., and four Indians, and the only other person they saw in that time was one Indian trapper.

The doctor desired also to get away from the heat. While St. Louis was sweltering, with temperatures around the 100 mark, these hunters were experiencing cold as much as 15 below, with freezing weather every night. The object of the hunt was achieved, too, for Dr. Hutton brought back two grizzly bears, two mountain sheep, two mountain goats, two caribou and a moose.

Dr. Hutton returned Tuesday, having been gone from St. Louis since Aug. 10. He joined nine other hunters from Williamsport and other Eastern cities at Vancouver, B. C., and they took a steamer to Wrangell, Alaska, whence they went up the Stikine River for 165 miles by gasoline launch to Telegraph Creek, B. C., to outfit. At Telegraph Creek the hunters divided into pairs. Aug. 23, Dr. Hutton's companion being R. L. Riley, an iron manufacturer. Each pair was accompanied by two guides, a cook and a horse wrangler, all Indians, and each had a pack train.

Slept Without Shelter. Part of the time Dr. Hutton was separated intermittently from Riley, as the hunters spread out to cover the country. "I worked hard," was his explanation of his full bag. Eyes sparkling with the recollection of the chase, he asserted there were no big thrills, but plenty of interest in stalking mountain denizens.

"Except when we were after moose we were above the timber line all the time, on rough, rocky mountainsides," he said. "Sometimes when there was sunshine the air would fill with snow in a blizzard all of a sudden. Often we were forced to stay over night without shelter, in arctic sleeping bags, but usually there were tents. We didn't always have good food. We wore heavy woolen clothing, sweaters, lumberjack shirts and hunting coats and two pairs of woolen gloves. Some of our food was ptarmigan, birds of the grouse family, which we shot.

Stalking Moose. "We used binoculars and frequently spotted game with them three to five miles away. Then we would ride up on horseback till we could tell if the antlers were good, and if they were we talked the game on foot up to 75 to 400 yards' distance, concealed by rock ledges. In the case of moose, we would spot them from a high point, then creep toward them down in the timber.

"Sometimes we wouldn't know exactly where we were for a couple of hours, but we were never really lost."

The 10 hunters got more than 70 specimens between them. One of them, a taxidermist of Williamsport, is mounting the trophies. Dr. Hutton, who gained his taste for big game hunting in a visit to the Yukon last year, used two Springfield 30-06 rifles. He killed fowl with a 12 rifle.

Oct. 4 the hunters rejoined to

HADLEY TELLS HOW DISEASE STOPPED GERMANS IN 1917

Disease Checked Advance
Until Americans Arrived, Chancellor Tells Red Cross.

Chancellor Hadley of Washington University, in an address at the closing session last night at the Scottish Rite Cathedral of the 14th annual convention of the American Red Cross, cited interesting instances where pestilence and disease checked the advance of the German army in 1917. The Red Cross, he stated, has been "one of the great agencies for the promotion of public health throughout the world."

"Competent military authority has asserted that, had the Germans not been prevented by influenza in 1917 from making the great drive for victory which they made in 1918, the result of the war might well have been different."

"Had it occurred before our troops had come to strengthen the morale and the hard pressed lines of our allies, German Imperialism might today dominate the world."

Service of Red Cross. "In that event we might today be trying to arrange terms of financial adjustment with the German Emperor and his military advisors, instead of insisting on exacting terms of interest and payment from our allies."

"And during that war the world was given the most impressive demonstration of the great value to civilization of scientific medicine and of the Red Cross."

"Following the defeat of the Austrian army in its first invasion of Serbia, there broke out an epidemic of typhus that threatened to wipe out the entire Serbian nation and doubtless would have done so had it not been for the work of the American Red Cross."

"Over half a million people were sick with this disease and over 100,000 had died before the Red Cross arrived upon the scene. But within three months the disease was on the decline and within six months it had been stamped out altogether."

Never was there a more brilliant and splendid victory won against pestilence and disease in the whole history of the world."

The direct combat with the deadly microbes of disease is the work of scientific medical men in the laboratories and hospitals, and well and nobly have they carried on their work."

Pestilence Mastered. "Smallpox, typhoid fever, typhus, yellow fever, diphtheria, scarlet fever, Asiatic cholera, meningitis, the bubonic plague and malaria have all been mastered and minimized as enemies and destroyers of the human race."

"A few yet remain to be conquered. But for the full enjoyment of the benefits of these great achievements of scientific medicine, the Red Cross and other humanitarian agencies of health and sanitation and mercy have been the most potent and helpful factors."

Reviewing historic facts, Hadley said that "pestilence and disease have time and time again changed

Obviously a stout woman must possess even more grace of carriage than a slight woman if she is to present a charming, smart appearance. And shoes, if they fail to provide comfort, are the greatest destroyers of grace!

ADAPTO Shoes, made by Lane Bryant especially for stout women, were perfected only after careful and exhaustive study of the footwear requirements of the woman of robust figure.

For instance, invariably, a stout woman requires a heel fitting two or three sizes smaller than the other proportionate measurements of her shoe—a "combination last."

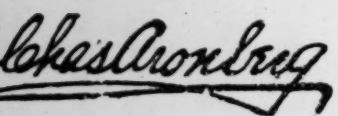

ADAPTOS are made over a "combination last" and afford restful, high arch support. They may be had in all the latest models of the Fall mode and in all sizes up to 11, with AAA to EEE.

THREE FIRMS DENY OPERATING LOTTERIES

Answers Filed to Receivership Suits Brought by State Finance Commissioner.

Answers were filed in Circuit Court yesterday by the Meyer Tailoring Co., Ferd Warner Tailoring Co. and Fisher Jewelry Co., three of the eight firms for which State Finance Commissioner French was appointed temporary receiver on his own application Monday.

The Meyer company denies it conducted an illegal co-operative company and lottery, as alleged by Commissioner French. The company has been in business since 1910 and is able to pay all obligations, the petition states.

For the purpose of "attracting customers," increasing good will and advertising the firm, a fixed number of suits are distributed free of charge to customers each year, the petition admits. But denial is made that the suits were awarded by lottery methods or that contracts were issued purporting to give the holder a chance of getting a free suit. The counter charge is made that the suit against it was filed "vexatiously and without cause" for the purpose of "wrecking" the business and bringing fees to the receiver.

The Fisher Jewelry Co. answer denies that contracts were issued and lottery methods used. Both answers ask that the receivership for the firms be ended.

Denial of allegations of the Finance Commissioner is made in the answer of the Ferd Warner Tailoring Co., which also attacks the right of the Commissioner to maintain the proceedings. Dismissal of the receiver is asked.

An attorney for Ben Seldier, in business as the Globe Tailoring Co., another defendant, declared this receivership was useless and unnecessarily expensive, as Seldier went out of business three months ago, and the receiver can receive nothing but $5 "customers' cards." The Globe Tailoring Co. and Home Mercantile Co. cases were continued to Oct. 27. The Meyer and Fisher cases, and others of the eight that are ready, will be heard tomorrow by Judges Miller and Falkenhainer in joint session.

Getting Skinnier Every Day

Hollows in Cheeks and Neck Growing Deeper Every Week

Something Must Be Done and Done Right Now—Quick

Tens of thousands of thin, run-down men—yes, and women, too—are getting discouraged—are giving up all hope of ever being able to take on flesh and look healthy and strong. All such people can stop worrying and start to smile and enjoy life right now, for McO's Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets, which any druggist will tell you all about, is putting flesh on hosts of skinny folks every day.

One woman, tired, weak and discouraged, put on 15 pounds in five weeks and now feels fine.

We all know that Cod Liver Oil is full of vitalizing flesh-producing vitamins, but many people can't take it because of its horrible smell and fishy taste and because it often upsets the stomach.

McO's Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets are as easy to take as candy and it's just as easy to get them. In 30 days your druggist is authorized to give you your money back—and only 50 cents for 90 tablets. Ask Wolfe-Wilson, Jurek & Dolph Drug Stores, Eberle Drug Co., Johnson Bros. Drug Co., or any druggist.

But be sure to get McO's, the original and genuine and bear in mind that for thin, sickly kids they are wonderful—very strong. They have gained 12 pounds in 10 months.

ANTI-FASCIST PRESS ASKS CENSOR TO USE MORE SPEED

Italian Editors Want to Know Their Fate Sooner. They Explain in Their Petition.

Rome, Sept. 23.—Italian newspapers allied politically with the parties opposing the present Fascist Government, whose daily destinies are at the mercy of the press censor, have addressed a plea to the censor that "he condemn them quickly if he intends to condemn them."

The press law provides that the censor approve each issue of each newspaper, the penalty being suppression of the edition if anything is found objectionable.

Recently the censor changed his office hours so that he did not examine the newspapers until several hours after their appearance. The result was that condemnations came so tardily that the newspaper was unable to print a later expurgated edition, as was previously the custom. Consequently all the copies of the newspapers were seized and the regular readers had no copies at all.

MOSCOW, Sept. 11.—After 18 years of obedient married life with a well-to-do peasant of Chernokoabsorbed the soviet doctrine of woman's rights and began taking part in village politics. Her husband's beatings failed to discourage her and she was elected a member of the village soviet. When she warned her husband that he must pay his taxes, he stabbed her with a knife. "The proletariat court will punish with great severity," adds the Siberian correspondent,

who reported the incident. Ku-boreva cannot be given more than 10 years' imprisonment, as a single murder without robbery is not a capital crime in Russia.

BOXES BEING TAKEN FOR BENEFIT SHOW

American Theater Performance
Monday Night to Aid Free
Ice Fund.

Boxes for "Club Night," the Monday evening performance at the American Theater, have been taken for parties by the following: Former Mayor Henry W. Kiss, C. G. Besch, R. King Kaufman, Judge Karl Kimmel, Maurice Weil and John J. Dowling, president of the St. Louis Real Estate Exchange, and members of various civic organizations are planning to attend together. The attraction will be "Spooks," a three-act mystery play by Robert J. Sherman, said to have more thrills than either "The Bat" or "The Cat and the Canary."

Miss Leona La Mar, known as the girl with 1000 eyes, will give a demonstration of thought reading between the acts of "Spooks." She has recently appeared in vaudeville and her work in England created much interest and drew favorable comment from Sir Arthur Conan Doyle, a confirmed exponent of spiritualism and communication with departed souls.

More workers to be added to hospital fund campaign

Officials expect to reach quota of $500,000 for St. Anthony's by Monday.

The fourth report luncheon of teams of the city-wide canvass for St. Anthony's Hospital Building fund was held at the City Club today. Reports of subscriptions received since yesterday had not been made in full, but it was thought they would exceed those of yesterday by several thousand dollars.

Subscriptions totaling $14,422 were reported yesterday. The total subscriptions are now $41,972. Campaign officials expect to reach $200,000, the building fund quota by Monday. In order to do this, it was agreed yesterday that additional workers would have to be enlisted to reach the 16,000 persons still to be called on.

New Airdrome in London,
CROYDON, Sept. 26.—A scheme, which it is stated will make the London terminal airdrome the first commercial station in the world
and which will cost near £250,000 ($1,200,000) has now been begun in earnest. Much work will have to be done before the airdrome is complete. Trees and hedges are being removed and a road diverted in order to take in an adjoining stretch of land. When this additional ground becomes available the air expresses will have a clear unobstructed space of between two and three miles upon which to take off and alight.

PICTURES RISE OF THE SMALL-TOWN EDITOR

Publisher Says Days of Trading Subscriptions for Cordwood Are Gone.

Twenty-five years ago the rural newspaper was run on charity, subscriptions being traded for cordwood. But now the small town editor is a citizen of standing, who holds his own with the banker, the merchant and the doctor.

Thus, Fred Naeter, editor and co-publisher with his brother of the Southeast Missourian, at Cape Girardeau, yesterday pictured the transformation which has taken place in the last 25 years, in addressing the several hundred Missouri editors and wives, gathered at Hotel Chase for the annual convention of the Missouri Press Association.

Tells of Own Paper.
His address, one of the many on the three-day program devoted to discussion of newspaper problems, particularly in the building up of advertising, circulation and prestige, was based on the subject,
"Some Features That Have Paid."
But digressing somewhat from the subject, Naeter unfolded an unusual story of the building up of his newspaper—the one newspaper in the community.

"You must charge an advertising rate and a circulation rate which will permit you to stand up in the community," he admonished
the editors. "Our rates are too low, and I am going to raise them
next January, or know why. 'Make em like it' is our motto, and when we do we are making a better town,
for we are rendering service."

"Twenty years ago we ran a weekly and a daily, and devoted most of our energies to building up the weekly. Then we were in competition with three other dailies
and four weeklies in the county.
We used every scheme to get circulation—baby contests, automobile contests, prizes and the like.
We got the weekly up to 3000 circulation, and then it fell off. Then came the war, and we dropped the weekly altogether. And our circulation on the daily boomed. Today, we circulate 1850 copies of our newspaper among the 2200
farm homes in Cape Girardeau County. The money we spent pioneering has come back."

Won Church Support.
"Prior to the Eighteenth amendment, we were the only hog-wild prohibition paper in the community. We simply had to be. The Mayor was president of the brewery, and the eight councilmen all were saloonkeepers. Personally, we were inclined to be wet, but we were forced into the dry column. We had 26 saloons in town, the greatest number per capita of any town our size. The brewery announced it would start an opposition paper."

"Well, we went to the churches and asked them point-blank if they would support a dry newspaper.
They said 'Yes.' And they have supported us, every church, Catholic and Protestant alike. Now today I was offered a 1200-inch contract for a malt extract advertisement. If we ever needed the money we do now, but how could we as a dry newspaper accept that contract. We couldn't and turned it down."

Spend money for reporters, Prof.
Frank L. Martin of the School of Journalism at the University of Missouri, advised the editors, in his address on "Reporters." Because every community has its surfeit of inexperienced and untrained newsgatherers and writers and because they may be employed at small cost, Prof. Martin said, the editor practices a false economy. He thinks nothing of spending twice or three times the salary for a man who brings in advertising or circulation, because that is tangible, he asserted. By a larger view, however, the trained reporter will build up good will, enhance the newspaper's prestige and in the long run sell both advertising and circulation.

Field Managers Speak.
G. L. Caswell of Ames, Ia., managing editor of the Iowa Press Association, and Ole Buck of Harvard, Neb., field manager of the Nebraska Press Association—the first two associations to employ field managers—enumerated various services they have rendered to the member newspapers of their associations.

The convention opened yesterday morning with addresses of welcome by Mayor Miller, President Clarkson of the Chamber of Commerce and responses by Eugene Roach, editor of the Carthage Democrat, president of the association. The Associated Industries was to the visitors at luncheon.
President Harry Scullin presiding
as toastmaster, and introducing as the speaker of the occasion, Dr.
Gus W. Dyer, professor of social science at Vanderbilt University.

MUSIC AIDS SWIMMING LESSONS AT WASHINGTON U.
Girls' Coach Says It Brings Out Rhythmic Instincts of Students.

Natural rhythmic instincts are drawn out by phonograph music are of considerable assistance in teaching Washington University girls to swim.

The coach, Miss Lucille B. Osborne, has proved this by playing waltzes or sometimes one-steps and fox-trots on a phonograph while putting the students through their strokes in the water. More than 200 young women are getting this training. Miss Osborne thinks music is just as necessary for graceful swimming as for dancing.

OPTIMISTS INSTALL OFFICERS
The St. Louis Optimist Club's inaugural ball, held at Hotel Statler last night, was attended by more than 1000 persons, including wives of members. Vaudeville, dancing and speaking were included in the program.

New officers installed were President, Dan T. Hyland; vice president, Frank Mead; treasurer, Dan McNamara; secretaries, Edgar Walsh and Roy Fiesch; directors, Dr. C. O. Max and Elliott Couden. Lawrence McDaniel was master of installation ceremonies.

INDUSTRIAL BILL OF MEXICO CITED AS RETROACTIVE

State Department Studies Pending Action to Increase Native Control of Firms.

AMBASSADOR ON WAY TO GET INFORMATION

Conceivably Proposal Would Wipe Out Vast Holdings in Cerritos and Cananea Copper.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Oct. 16.—The attention of State Department officials again has been directed to the celebrated Article 27 of the Mexican Constitution. The possible effect of which on American interests in Mexico has been a subject of long controversy.

The department is scrutinizing a proposed new Mexican law which would compel all Mexican-owned corporations owning land throughout the country to become at least 51 per cent Mexican as to stock ownership, and all Mexican corporations operating within 50 miles of the international frontiers and 25 miles of the sea coast to become 100 per cent Mexican as to stockholders within three years.

The new law is an enactment of provisions of Article 27 and is couched in terms which are regarded by American oil interests as giving the article that retroactive effect against which the United States has protested.

The only possible market for American holdings would be to Mexican citizens, inevitably reducing the holdings to a fraction of their actual value, while application of 100 per cent Mexicanization along the border would conceivably wipe out such vast American interests as the Cerritos and the Cananea Consolidated Copper.

Acquired in Good Faith.
The holdings, it is argued by the protesting interests, were acquired in good faith before Article 27 was adopted in 1917, and should be protected.

It also is pointed out that under the proposed law, foreign investors in Mexico would be compelled to waive all rights to recourse or protection from their own Governments under penalty of forfeiting the properties.

Although no official copy has been received, it is the understanding of those concerned that the proposed statute has the backing of the Calles government, which more than once has been in trouble with Washington since it received American recognition.

United States Ambassador Sheffield, who has been in the United States on leave, is to reach Vera Cruz within a day or two on his way back to Mexico City, and he will be expected to provide the State Department with more details of the legislative proposal and its purpose.

Hughes' Statement.
No one here would comment in any way, or undertake to say what the effect may be on the pending negotiations for a treaty of peace and amity with Mexico. When these negotiations opened months ago, Secretary of State Hughes reminded Mexico of the apprehension felt here over the land ownership provisions of Article 27, and added:

"If these provisions are carried into effect retroactively, the properties of American citizens will be confiscated on a great scale. This would constitute an international wrong of the gravest character and this Government could not submit to its accomplishment."

Foreign Minister Defends Mexico's Right to Pass Restrictive Law.

MEXICO CITY, Oct. 16.—Mexico's right to adopt legislation forbidding foreigners to hold properties along her frontiers was upheld by Foreign Minister Saenz today in a statement to the Associated Press. The enactment of the Volstead Act in the United States, he said, was an example of the right of a nation to make effective a restrictive law.

Nobody could deny that prohibition had severely injured established interests and had brought ruin to vast investments, yet nobody questioned the right of the United States to pass such a law.

Mexico's right to enact legislation putting into effect article 27 of her constitution likewise could not be questioned.

The proposed law at most, he said, was "more merciful" than prohibition, because foreigners were to be given a reasonable term in which to dispose of their stock in corporations within the prohibited zone.

Regarding renunciation by foreigners of their national rights as to companies outside the prohibited area, he pointed out that foreigners were forbidden to acquire property in some of the states of the American union.

The proposed amendment of article 27 was discussed in the Chamber of Deputies yesterday. Deputy Soto Gama, secretary of the leader, asserted that, unless the acquisition of lands by foreigners were checked Mexico might lose Tamaulipas state, where there are old fields, also Lower California and possibly other sections. "The same as we formerly lost Texas."

FIRE IN MISSOURI THEATER PUT OUT WITHOUT ALARM

Short Circuit in Projection Machine Causes Loss of $500; Audience Not Disturbed.

Fire in the projection booth at the Missouri Theater, 634 North Grand boulevard, at 2:15 p. m. yesterday caused damage estimated at $500 to film and apparatus, but failed to interrupt the program or cause any disturbance in the matinee audience.

Firemen, summoned by telephone, extinguished the blaze quickly with chemical apparatus, and persons occupying first-floor seats were not aware that there was a fire in the theater. The blaze resulted from a short circuit in a projection machine. The loss is covered by insurance.

PRINCE SHARES IN U. S. ESTATE

Assigned $240,000 by Daughter of Mrs. Jean de St. Cyr.

By the Associated Press.
SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Oct. 16.—It was learned here today that Prince Alexander, son of a leading house of European nobility, is to share in the estate of the late Mrs. Jean de St. Cyr of San Francisco to the extent of $240,000. The amount was assigned to the Prince by the Princess Anita Stewart of New York and daughter of Mrs. de St. Cyr, to liquidate certain obligations owing the Prince by the late Prince Miguel de Braganza, husband of the Princess. Approximately $250,000 remains in the estate for Princess Anita.

The assignee is known as Prince

Alexander of Thurn and Taxis, and his holdings are in Bohemia.

Teacher's Slayer Begins Life Term.

JEFFERSON CITY, Oct. 16.—Everette Adams, 17 years old, who was sentenced to life imprisonment in the penitentiary after his conviction last Saturday at Sedalia of the murder of Aden R. Clawson, school teacher, of Lodi, N. Y., was received at the penitentiary yesterday and dressed in today. Adams killed Clawson near Lamotte, on Aug. 1, in an attempted holdup, after Clawson had given Adams a "lift" in his automobile, near California, Mo., and offered to take him to California on a tour.

Adams hid the body on a by-lane and fled in Clawson's automobile. He was arrested in Garden City, Kan.

STREET WORK TO COST $438,000 APPROVED
Board of Estimate and Apportionment Passes on Several Projects.

Ordinances appropriating $438,000 for improvements, mostly of streets, were approved by the board of Estimate and Apportionment today.

Street work involved includes improvement of Franklin avenue between High street and Jefferson avenue, for $128,500, of which $40,510 will come from special taxes; pavement of Easton avenue between Prairie and Marcus avenues, for $122,000, under special taxes, and widening of the same section of Easton from 50 to 56 feet, for $45,000, with bond funds; improvement of Walnut street between Twentieth street and Jefferson avenue, and various lesser improvements.

Other items approved are $6000 for a temporary bridge over River des Peres for the projected northward extension of Skinner road and $8000 for Koch Hospital kitchen and laundry improvements.

The board held up a proposed ordinance creating a parole department, under a chief parole officer at $3000 a year, until it could consult with Judge Cooper of the Court of Criminal Correction, which would be served by the department. The present parole service covers only the police courts.

Pittsburgh Pastor Says Sending of Battleships to Australia Was Affront to Japan.

By the Associated Press.
CLEVELAND, U. S., Oct. 16.—Out-laws of war was urged yesterday by the Unitarian Churches of the United States and Canada.

A resolution was adopted declaring that the United States should adhere to the World Court and enter the League of Nations.

Speaking in favor of the resolution, Dr. L. Walter Mason of Pittsburgh declared America was regarded as a menace to world peace and the sending of the United States Navy on its Pacific cruise was regarded as an affront to Japan.

"It war breaks out again in Europe, America is responsible," Dr.

Why Our Prices Are So Much Lower!

The price you pay for your furniture includes the cost of the merchandise (which is practically the same to every dealer) plus that dealer's cost of doing business and his margin of profit. The price varies because the cost of doing business varies. The store with the lowest overhead can sell the cheapest. Because of the fact that this store pays no rent or has no high-powered or high-priced sales force, its overhead is exceedingly small. The saving is passed on to you.

DEDICATION OF BRIDGE AT FENTON TOMORROW

Twelve Past and Present Public Officials to Speak at the Exercises.

Twelve past and present public officials will speak at the dedication tomorrow afternoon of the State Highway Commission's new bridge carrying Gravois road (State Highway No. 30) over the Meramec River at Fenton. A parade will start from the Fenton Farmers' Club at 1 p. m. and proceed to a parking space at the west end of the bridge, where the dedication ceremony will start at 2 p. m. Congressman Hawes, State Senator Ralph, former State Senator Gardner, Sam Rudder, district State highway engineer, and County Judge Bohring will speak at the bridge, which then will be opened to traffic for the first time. The gathering then will adjourn to the farmers' club for public barbecue, where Gov. Baker, Senator Williams, Roy F. Britton, president of the Automobile Club of Missouri; Mayor Miller, former Mayor Kiel, State Representative Walter Wehrle and former State Representative George F. Heege will speak. Public dancing, lasting into the evening, will follow at the club. There will be several brass bands. Delegations from business associations and adjacent counties are expected to attend.

Gravois road is open and concreted all the way through Fenton and beyond into Jefferson County. Those going to Fenton from the east tomorrow will cross the river on the old bridge, which is to be maintained by the county. Deputy Sheriffs will direct traffic.

The new bridge, of steel and concrete, with three spans, cost about $1000,000 and measures 640 feet between approaches.

POLICEMEN CRITICISED FOR STRIKING CITIZENS

Defendants in Cases on Appeal
Before Judge Gayer Tell
of Attacks.

Policemen in plain clothes often make known their identity to persons under suspicion by displaying their badge in one hand and striking out at their victim in pugilistic fashion with the other, Judge Gayer asserted yesterday in commenting on a traffic violation case which was before him on appeal from Police Court.

The case was that of James Slaughter of 1606 South Broadway, who had been fined $200 on charges of careless driving and resisting arrest by Police Judge Beck following his arrest Sept. 27 after a slight accident at Fifteenth and Benton streets. Judge Gayer reduced the fine to $10.

Patrolman O'Gara testified he saw a machine, driven by Slaughter, run up on the sidewalk and strike
a small boy. He related that Slaughter had been drinking and offered considerable resistance when he attempted to arrest him.

Slaughter testified that a man in civilian attire jerked him out of his machine and struck him before stating that he was a police officer.
He identified O'Gara as the man who had struck him. Slaughter admitted having had "a few drinks," but said he was not intoxicated. He denied that his machine struck the boy, who had corroborated
the testimony of the patrolman.

Immediately after Judge Gayer
had disposed of the Slaughter appeal, another story of alleged abuse
by policemen was related by George Fleming of 1421 North Nineteenth street, who had appealed from a Police Court fine on a charge of disturbing the peace of policemen.

Fleming testified that he and a companion went to the Carr Street Station to complain of a Police Sergeant who had assaulted them
because they had been drinking,
and related that Sergt. Buchanan and other policemen struck them
while they were in the police station.
Sergt. Buchanan denied Fleming's charges.

"Citizens have a right to make complaints against police officers and should be treated like human beings when they do so," Judge
Gayer said in discharging Fleming.
Police Court fines assessed against a negro and two negroes
for disturbance of the peace of policemen were dismissed after the trio had testified that police broke into their home to search for liquor while they were attending church. The house, they testified, was ransacked. The policemen testified they entered the house through an open door in the rear. They denied the other charges of the negroes, but admitted their search for liquor had been fruitless.

Of the 46 cases on the docket, 35
were dismissed, nine were continued, fines of six were sustained and four were reduced by Judge Gayer.
Most of the cases were for traffic violations.

PIRATES' COURAGE WINS

M'Kechnie's Men, After Heart-Breaking Start, Outgame the Senators

Carey, Cuyler and Others Hammer Walter Johnson Viciously, While Errors by Peckinpaugh Create the "Breaks" That Give Pittsburgh World's Title.

By J. Roy Stockton.

Of the Post-Dispatch Sport Staff.

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 16.—Baseball's championship banner flutters over Forbes' Field today and the good people of Pittsburgh in their frenzied celebration over the victory of the Pirates of Bill McKechnie and the defeat of the Senators of Bucky Harris are not concerned with the manner in which the victory was achieved.

They don't care to be told that the Senators would still be champions if Roger Peckinpaugh had not pitched his seventh error of the world's series. And they care not that the Pirates still would have been two runs short of victory if the same Roger Peckinpaugh had made a decently accurate throw to second base on an ordinary grounder.

Pittsburgh cares not that the defeat was achieved largely because a slow drizzling rain made the ball and the pitching slab so slippery that Walter Johnson could not pitch his best. Pittsburgh cares not that its world championship pennant was won in the worst game of baseball that ever was played in a world series.

That statement is not made rashly. Veteran baseball men who have seen world series struggles for more than 20 years, agree that never was a worse game played than yesterday's, and certainly that never was a title won and lost on such a day and in such a game.

But Pittsburgh cares not that the drizzle fell throughout the game and that Washington played most slovenly baseball. No, Pittsburgh knows only that the Pirates of Bill McKechnie have won the world's championship and that in doing that the team has accomplished the remarkable feat of taking a seven-game series after it had lost three of the first four games.

Pirates' Courage Wins.

It only knows that these young men of Bill McKechnie, whose courage was questioned from coast to coast, and who were picked to lose by so many experts because it was said their hearts, their courage, their nerve and their natural baseball talent, have won the supreme honors of baseball by one of the most courageous uphill fights in the history of the national game.

After one brief half inning, the Pirates saw Walter Johnson, who was on the hill with a four-run lead. Walter Johnson, who already had beaten them twice; Walter Johnson, who had held them to one run in one game and no runs in another game; Walter Johnson, the king of the fast-ball pitchers, who was supposed to be supreme on a dark day. And here was a dark day. A dark, drizzly day and Walter Johnson's four runs ahead after one-half an inning.

That four-run rally had seen Victor Aldridge blasted from the mound. And it had been said that the Pirates hoped depended on this Victor Aldridge, bulldog-hearted schoolmaster from Indiana. That four-run rally had seen the Pirates team crack under fire, go up in the air, become rattled, make all manner of mistakes.

Could the stage have been set with greater ingenuity to insure a total collapse of the Pittsburgh morale? Hardly. Pitching ace knocked out. Costly error by an infielder. Wild pitching and impotent hitting, all contributing to the four big runs that stood out in such bold relief on the scoreboard on this cold, dark, drizzly day.

"They are done," said the experts tersely. "Johnson has the game in the sock and the National

Peckinpaugh's Muffed Fly and His Bad Throw Wreck Washington Hopes

At any rate, Peck muffed that fly, with which Moore started the seventh inning and Moore reached second base on the error. Carey quickly took advantage of the break and smashed a double to left center, scoring Moore. Cuyler laid down a sacrifice, sending Carey to third and after Barnhart had grounded out, Pie Traynor came through with another double, sending Carey over the run which tied the score. There had been cheers before, but they were supposed to be cheers. But they had been mere ruggings. Now came the real noise. Forty thousand throats joined in and up and down the valley in which this city nestles reared the cheers of coming victory. The score was only tied, but the Pirates were rampant and even when Roger Peckinpaugh passed a home run over the left field bleacher screen in the eighth, the stands did not subside.

The blow was enough to stop an ordinary team and an ordinary gathering of fans. But this was no ordinary baseball team and this was a most extraordinary

Peckinpaugh, "Goat" of Series, Responsible for 9 Enemy Runs

Eight Errors Yield Seven Tallies, and Failure to Touch Second, on One Occasion, Costs Two Moes.

By Herman Wecke.

A month ago Roger Peckinpaugh was voted the "most valuable man" to his team in the American League. This gave him a place in baseball's "hall of fame" with George Sisler, Babe Ruth and Walter Johnson.

Today this same Roger Peckinpaugh is the holder of a new world's series record. But he also is "THE GOAT" of the series. For Peck made eight errors in the seven battles and some of these proved decidedly costly. One of them paved the way for the winning runs for the Pirates in the final game of the series. In passing, it might be said that the previous record for errors was six, made by Hans Wagner against the Boston Red Sox 25 years ago. And Wagner was at the 1925 battles to see his record shattered.

Peck played in each of the seven games and in only one of these, the 4 to 0 triumph for Johnson Sunday, did he go through without a blemish.

Eight Errors Cost 7 Runs. The eight errors for Peck in the series were directly responsible for seven runs for the Pittsburgh club. In other words, he proved a good "goat" man for the National League in the title struggles. Some of Peck's errors did no damage. With others it was altogether different. This was especially true in the seventh and deciding game. He made two and they resulted in the opposition scoring FOUR runs, enough to beat Walter Johnson.

As a result of them, the Senators are dividing the losers' end of the series.

How Peck established his new series booting record and how Pittsburgh profited follows:

First game, fifth inning—Fumbled Grantham's roller, no damage done.

Fumbled Moore's grounder. Moore scored and Cuyler on his home run drive and Coveleski was beaten, 3-2. Later

Biggest Baseball Blunder Caused Senators' Defeat

—BAN JOHNSON

Walter Johnson Should Have Been Taken Out After Third Inning.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CHICAGO, Ill., Oct. 16.—Ban P. Johnson, president of the American League, characterized the defeat of the Washington Senators by the Pittsburgh Pirates in the deciding game of the world series at Pittsburgh yesterday as the "biggest blunder" in the history of baseball.

In an interview, Johnson, bitterly disappointed because of the American League champions' defeat, was highly incensed over the manner in which the Senators were handled in the game

IES FINA BILLIKENS AND PIKERS FAVORED OVER DRURY AND AGGIES

St. Louis Teams Still Powerful Though Crippled

Washington Will Miss Floun and Mahan; Ramacciotti Not to Start

By John H. Alexander.

Although minus the services of several regulars, St. Louis University will meet Drury and Washington afternoons with highly serviceable lineups in the third game of their gridiron schedules. Both teams expect to score their initial victories of the season and the Pirates' first conference triumph in two years.

The Billikens, still crippled from their disastrous encounter with Iowa, are the harder hit by injuries, but expect to be strong enough to down the Panthers. Paid and O'Connell, backfield stars, will be unable to play because of swollen ankles and Lewis is lost for the season. From the line Higi, through for the year, Jim Clark, Albin and Tom Stanton will be missing.

Bob Mahan, flashy Piker half-back, has suffered an injury to his head in scrimmage and will not play tomorrow. X-ray pictures are to be taken today to determine the extent of the blow's effect. Ingalls and Sturbois, tackles, are also laid up.

In the face of his hospital list, Coach Savage will put a strong eleven on the field although the line will be made up of green men for the most part. Capt. Ramacciotti will not start the game, Savage said last night, but will certainly get in action before the close of the first half. His place will be taken at the start by the sensational 185-pounder, whose work in last night's scrimmage was spectacular.

New Men to Be Seen.

New men will be seen in the Billikens backfield in the person of Ormond, a good looking product from the West coast, and Smith, a back almost unknown to fans. Strong may also get into action. O'Reilly at quarter and Kapl will serve to balance the new combination. Kahle and Tom Sweeney will start on the ends and the guards will be Blum and Torres, both playing their first year of varsity football.

Coach Higgins' eleven will be headed by the diminutive Hayes at quarter. Senne will be at fullback, taking care of the berth formerly filled by Capt. Levy. The Piker backfield will today be seen at tackle paired with Miller in what is expected to be a big league tackle combination.

Floun is Lost to Team.

Harding and McDonald, the latter filling the shoes of the dismissed Sam Floun, will take care of the halves. Avila and Joe Hensley are slated for the end positions and Thrasher and Sommers at the guards. Webster has recovered from his recent injury and will play at center.

Piker students and alumni met at Francis gym last night and plans were laid for backing up the team tomorrow. The Aggies, 23 in number arrived in town this morning and will workout on Francis Field this afternoon. They are accompanied by Coach Johnny Maubetsch, former Michigan and all-America star, who stated this morning that his team was in fairly shipshape condition.

Syracuse Has Heavy Line.

By the Associated Press. INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Oct. 16.—Twenty-six husky exponents of football as it is played at Syracuse University went through a stiff two-hour workout here yesterday before entraining for Bloomington to play Indiana University Saturday. The team appeared to have a plenitude of heavy linemen and fast working backs.

Seventh game: Cuyler's running back off Peck in third; Traynor jumping stop and throw out Bluege in fifth, cutting off hit; Mac Carey's four hits, including three doubles, and Cuyler's double, winning game in eighth.

"WOULD NOT LIKE TO HAVE PEOPLE THINK I NEED MONEY"—JOHNSON

By the Associated Press. PITTSBURG, Oct. 16.—Walter Johnson said yesterday he had been notified by telegraph of the plan originating in Muskogee, Ok., for baseball fans to raise $1,000,000 and buy a baseball club for him as a popular tribute.

The famous Washington pitcher voiced his appreciation of the spirit prompting the movement but said he could not say now just what his attitude would be toward it.

"I wouldn't like the impression to be gained that I need money or anything like that," said Walter, "but at the same time I am grateful for the idea apparently inspiring this movement."

"The Boys Tried to Show How Bad They Could Look in a World Serious"

—RING LARDNER

Aldridge Couldn't Hit the Foe's Bats and Johnson Couldn't Miss Them, in Final Game, Ring Says.

By Ring Lardner.

PITTSBURG, Pa., Oct. 16.—Wednesday the boys were all saying that this or that pitcher would be benefitted by the postponement of the game. Well, it looked like the only pitcher who was a beneficiary yesterday was Rubie Oldham, who pitched one innings and had the benefit of an entire series' rest. In fact those of us who have followed the series through can't remember the last time Rubie pitched. It must have been sometime during the Spanish war. When Bill McKechnie shot him in there in the ninth inning we was all gnawing at our hearts and wondering who was this Oldham.

"Oh," said one centurion, "that must be the Rubie Oldham who used to be with Detroit and they asked for death certificates on him years ago and Pittsburgh claimed him."

"They can claim him as far as I am concerned," said another stupid old graybeard, "but I do think he should be the recipient of a memorial donated by the baseball writers with the inscription: 'Here lies the body of Rubie Oldham. He has kept us out of the Christmas holidays.'"

With which remark the meeting was adjourned and most of the delegates hobbled out of the world's series to try to procure their lowers on the baggage coach ahead.

"Going on November," was the reply.

"Play the game," ordered the Judge. "I have an engagement for Thanksgiving dinner."

So the game was played, if you could call it played.

Somebody came up to me and said it was a great thing in Walter Johnson's favor that he had this extra day's rest.

"Listen," I said, "when a man gets as old as me and Walter, why another day only means you are another day older."

When the game finally began Walter and his opposing hero, Vic Aldridge, seemed equally odd. It worked in opposite ways. Vic pitched as if he was in another Springfield Nine Wins.

By the Associated Press. SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Oct. 16.—With Gus Goeckel pitching steady ball, the B and M Tires, a team of Springfield Three Eye Leaguers, in an exhibition game, defeated the House of David nine of Benton Harbor, Mich., 2 to 1 yesterday. Kissella hit a home run for the Springfield club.

By William B. McKechnie, Manager of World's Champions.

PITTSBURG, Oct. 16.—Meet the new baseball champions of the world, the Pittsburgh Pirates. We beat Washington in the final battle of the greatest series ever played. Before I start raving about the Pirates (that's the way I feel now) I want to say a few words for Washington. They showed the Pirates a great game and hustling ball club and they showed us some stars like Johnson, Judge and Joe Harris, who are mighty hard to beat. I might go down the whole Washington lineup and say something about every man who in one form or another gave us plenty of trouble.

I have been in baseball for 20 years, but I never saw such a series and especially such a game as the one that decided the title. There was hardly a moment that did not see some spectacular, exciting stuff flashed by the men on both sides.

In winning, we are not forgetting the gallant stand made by Johnson and the rest of the Washington club. Even when the odds were heavily against us, I never figured the Senators had a better team.

As I said before, my team always goes best when the situation is the toughest. I have a club that goes better when the test is a big one. I believe you will agree with me in this by what the Pirates showed in the series.

Team Showed Real Pluck.

Facing the necessity of winning three straight games, the Pirates accomplished that. Facing the necessity of tackling Walter Johnson in the final battle, after he

"No Disgrace to Be Defeated by Pirates"—Peck

Washington Shortstop Offers an Apology to Umpire Moriarty.

By Roger Peckinpaugh, Washington Shortstop. (Copyright, 1925.)

PITTSBURG, Oct. 16.—Well, it's all over. Naturally the result came as a great shock to us, as we got off to such a good start. The Pirates were forced to beat us on a "three-or-no-count."

Yesterday's affair was a heart-breaker to lose. In our very first frame we jumped four runs to the good. Later we were leading 6-3, and as late as the eighth had the edge when my homer broke a six-all deadlock. It came right after I had made an error and I felt that I had made up for this miscue and at last had sprung into the lime-light. But it simply was not our day.

I feel particularly sorry for Walter Johnson. The old boy deserves all baseball can give him and a victory for him would have given him another record. He went in there with a bad leg and gave his all but it wasn't enough.

Manager McKechnie has a great team. Not only is it stronger defensively than I expected it would be in this series, but every member is a real slugger and none seems to know when he is beaten. I do not feel that our loss to a team like this is any disgrace.

I want to take this occasion to make an apology—which I feel is due both to Umpire Moriarty and to the national game. In an earlier article I partially blamed the loss of Tuesday's game to a decision made by this arbiter in the third frame of that game. This article was written by me hastily after the battle, when I was pretty well discouraged over the defeat and was not read carefully by me. As a result, it looked worse in print than I intended, and I feel that, in justice to the game and the umpire in question, the examination is due.

For the next few months I plan to forget baseball. The Senators will be right back fighting for the Grand Old American League rag again next year and here's hoping that we not only win it, but keep right on with our winning ways in the title set.

Perry Picks Notre Dame to Defeat Army Eleven Tomorrow

Eastern Critic Favors Yale Over Penn—Illinois Is Limping Along With Undeveloped Line and Iowa Is Likely to Gain Victory Over Zuppke's Men.

A Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch. By Lawrence Perry.

NEW YORK, Oct. 16.—In numerous football camps the date, Oct. 17, glows with a luminosity which is sinister, or promising as the case may be. It is rare that a mid-October date offers so many contests which carry the strong likelihood of bearing significantly upon post-season rankings. Here they are:

Yale vs. Pennsylvania; this is a game which will bring together two strong teams, both of which have hurried a bit not only for this game, but for other important struggles lying immediately ahead.

Two strong lines will be opposed and rival backfields of singular merit will strive to advance the ball in a variety of ways. Either team may win, but the writer rather inclines to Yale on the ground of better instruction.

Wisconsin vs. Michigan. A dramatic situation, inasmuch as the Badger coach until this year was chiefly concerned in teaching football to the Michigan eleven. George Little has done a great work already at Wisconsin, and has developed a strong outfit. Here again either team may win, but the writer picks Michigan.

Picks Notre Dame to Win.

Army vs. Notre Dame. Another great game. The army has lost some star players of the 1924 outfit and is hardly the team it was last fall at this time. On the other hand Notre Dame has not departed from the normal stride of development for this contest as she usually does. The writer picks Notre Dame to win, however.

Georgia Tech vs. Florida. The Yellow Jackets will probably be found to be suffering from some reaction from their New York trip. Not one of the 35 players had ever seen the nation's metropolis. The sights and sounds and traveling combined with the hard game they played, may be found to have softened them a little, and Florida, a strong team this fall, may overturn them. But the writer rather thinks not. A Tech victory may be expected.

Princeton vs. Navy. Here is a game always vigorously contested from beginning to end. But the Tigers are nowhere near where they should be at this time of the season and it would not surprise the writer a bit were the Middies to strip the Jersey feline of his pelt.

Syracuse Should Win.

Syracuse vs. Indiana. An inter-sectional game. Syracuse is going great guns just now and the indications are that the Hoosiers are in for a beating.

University of Washington vs. Nebraska. A great chance to see what the stalwart Huskies will do under which will have a bearing upon conference honors. Illinois is limping along with an undeveloped line and the Iowans are likely to administer a beating to Zuppke's men.

COMMISSIONER LANDIS CALLS ON SENATOR PLAYERS FOR APOLOGY

By the Associated Press. PITTSBURGH, Oct. 16.—Three Washington players, Manager Stanley Harris, catcher Harold Kuhn and shortstop Roger Peckinpaugh yesterday were called before Commissioner Landis before the final game of the world's series started in regard to statements criticizing Empire Morarty in a story that appeared under Peckinpaugh's name. Morarty was present.

After a lengthy discussion the commissioner is reported to have demanded an apology. In case this was not forthcoming he is said to have promised some action on the player-writer matter.

"I do not like to take such an attitude," he said, "but it seems necessary in this case."

The objectionable words, in an article on Tuesday's game over which Peckinpaugh's name appeared are as follows:

"Ordinarily I do not blame any of our losses on the umpires, fearing that it will be looked upon as a cheap alibi. However Empire Morarty yesterday missed one at a critical time which beat us and for this reason I cannot help but mention it."

Webster Plays At Louisville This Afternoon

St. Louis County Eleven Faces Undefeated Team Today.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Oct. 16.—Slushing through mud and water for three hours, Louisville Male High School went through her final preparation yesterday afternoon for the Webster Groves game here today. The "show me" lads are said to be coming here with one of the strongest outfits that the purple warriors will have to meet this year.

An untied combination will start against the Missouri aggregation today. Austin Dwyer, one of the outstanding stars on the Bulldog eleven, suffered a broken ankle in the game last Saturday with Indianapolis Tech. Coach Elias Green and Medinger have tried hard to fill his place and in so doing have made a number of radical changes.

Louisville High had about 150 men in uniform for practice yesterday. The first three teams are considered as the first place this year. The Purple coaches have two eleven that are hard to choose between. Usually one team serves the first and last periods and the other the second and third quarters.

Louisville is a strong contender for national schoolboy honors this season. Last fall the Purple eleven, according to the consensus of sport writers, finished third in the country. They will make a strong bid for first place this year. A victory over Webster is considered essential to claim the honor.

Officials: Noah of Pittsburgh, Duffey of Centre, Ewald of Louisville and Coleman of Virginia. Louisville 34, St. Xavier of Louisville 0. Louisville 24, Richmond High of Madison 0. Louisville 28, Owensboro High 0. Louisville 28, Indianapolis Tech. 7.

Other games on the schedule are with Webster Groves today; Home Fogs of Nashville; Lexington High; Moline, Ill. High; Walte High and Manual High of Louisville. The Manual High team plays Scott High of Toledo here tomorrow.

ILLINOIS IN FINAL PRACTICE FOR IOWA

By the Associated Press. URBANA, Ill., Oct. 16.—Coach Zuppke yesterday sent his varsity squad through their last drill in preparation for the Illinois first conference game against Iowa at Iowa City. A light workout this morning will be in order on the stadium field before the team departs.

Harry "Swede" Hall continued to call signals as quarterback while Gallivan shifted to a halfback's job. Hall, a veteran of two seasons, is conceded to be one of the craftiest field generals in the game, and although he is practically unable to carry the ball because of long-standing injuries, is a valuable defensive player and is experienced in running interference for Grange.

Illini Player Improves.

By the Associated Press. URBANA, Ill., Oct. 16.—James E. Whitfield, freshman quarterback at the University of Illinois who was seriously injured in practice against the varsity Wednesday afternoon, was much improved yesterday and is expected to recover.

Early diagnoses gave cause for reports that Whitfield was not expected to live but he regained consciousness yesterday morning and has been gaining strength constantly.

HORSE FAILS TO WIN, TRAINER KILLS SELF

By the Associated Press. MAISON LAFFITTE, France, Oct. 16.—Failure of the race horse Transvaal to win the Charewitch stakes at New Market, England, running unplaced, broke the heart of his trainer, Vassili Wadonsky, who committed suicide by hanging upon his return from England yesterday.

Transvaal won the grand prix de Paris at Paris in 1924 at the unprecedented odds of 125 to 1. Forsett, a French bred gelding won the Charewitch stakes, and Transvaal was nowhere.

Price Alone Does Not Determine Quality

You cannot judge quality by the price alone—and most men realize it—although, even against their better judgment they often pay too much for their clothes.

What the ordinary retail clothier does is no concern of ours—but what you do is most certainly our concern—inasmuch as we have it in our power to "put you straight" on the clothing question if you will only let us.

FAIRMOUNT RACE TRACK.

COLLINSVILLE, Ill., Oct. 16.—Water lay in a myriad of little pools on the sloppy track as the eighteenth day of racing opened at Fairmount Jockey Club. There were scarcely 2500 persons in the park when the horses went to post in the first race. Most of the patrons sought the shelter of the betting ring, under the grand stand, to escape a chilly wind and a misty rain.

Rajah, the foreign-bred son of Durbar-Parthenon, hung up his fourth victory in six races at Fairmount, when he passed Old Top after one furlong to win the first event, easily.

However, to finish second, and Zorro, a favorite, was third. There were only six starters and the others were never close up.

J. Walker, a youngster who has been identified with O. E. Pons' stable, rode his first race yesterday. His mount was Shanghai, in the seventh. The boy weighs only 11 pounds. His work as a practice boy in workouts indicates he will get his share of winners.

Jockey G. Duncan, who was thrown from the saddle by the boisterous Son of Tromp, suffered a sprained ankle but he is not likely to be incapacitated more than one day. As he fell at the post, he narrowly escaped serious injury as the horse stepped all around him but not on him.

A suspension of five days was meted out to Jockey L. Bazer for subordination at the post in the first race. He had the leg up on Chestnut Girl.

The transfer of horses via the claiming route is still quite active. T. Hodge, who trains the St. Bernard Stable, including the colt Mink, yesterday claimed (himself a 2-year-old colt, from the Cannon Ball Stable, owned by J. P. and H. L. Grubb. The price was $1500.

The combination of Belle K. with Vernon Wallis in the saddle, a consistent winner recently at Omaha, got into the money yesterday in the first race at Fairmount.

ANSWERS TO QUERIES

The Post-Dispatch reserves the right to reject any query. Personal and telephone calls, or answers by mail, cannot be given attention, except letters on medical questions of unobtrusive character when accompanied by stamped addressed envelope.

ANXIOUS.—The best time to transplant and to cut down rose bushes is in March or in the early spring, just as they begin to bud. E. F. W.—The present is a good time to plant shade or fruit trees, as the proper time for this is when the leaves drop after the first hard freeze, or it can be delayed until spring.

H. K. K.—Mica is used to a large extent in the electrical industries, the pure mineral being one of the most perfect insulating materials. The sheet form of mica is also largely used and there are a large number of compositions whereby different shapes of mica can be made by gluing small sheets of mica on cloth or paper by the use of shellac or some similar material. Ground mica is also used in this manner. Because of its great resistance to fire and heat, mica is used in high temperature chimneys, in making stoves, lamp chimneys, and the like.

G. B.—The first newspaper in St. Louis was called "The Missouri Gazette." It was a small weekly paper edited and owned by Joseph Charles, the first number appearing July 12, 1808. The printing office was on Main street, south of the present Elm street, and the subscription price was $3 per year. It required fully a half a day to print a small edition, or rather the two inside pages, for only one side could be printed at a time. The Sunday newspaper made its appearance in St. Louis on Sept. 8, 1814, the pioneer in this enterprise being the "Republican." It carried over the principal contents of the Sunday issue to Monday, including the editorial contents, only the telegraph matter and important local news of Sunday.

EX-SOLDIER. The American Legion was organized in Paris, March 15 to 17, 1919, by a thousand officers and men, delegates from all of the units of the American Expeditionary Forces to an organization adopted a declaration of principles and selected the name "American Legion." The action of the Paris meeting was confirmed and endorsed by a similar meeting held in London.

ADMINISTRATOR.—Your question is not clear; write again, stating all of the facts.

ANXIOUS.—If a sailor is gotten out of the navy before his enlistment has expired he will not be dishonorably discharged nor will his rights of citizenship be revoked.

ANXIOUS.—The man does not have to inform his sisters and brothers in his will. They would have no claim. However, he must mention his adopted child in the will.

MRS. B. W.—Police of the city of St. Louis must reside in the city, and are not permitted to live elsewhere or leave the city without the permission of their superior officers. This is a requirement for the appointment.

A WIDOWED MOTHER.—In Missouri you can apply to the County Court for an allowance if there is no County Board of Welfare in your county. Write to the Secretary of State at Nashville, Tenn., for information regarding the Tennessee law.

J. McN.—Make application to the License Collector at the City Hall for a license to become a private detective. The cost is $12 a year. Your application referred to the Chief of Police for investigation and recommendation, however, before a license is issued.

MRS. E. M.—If your name was forged without your knowledge it could not injure you or deprive you of your property. Your husband could not take your home away from you in case of a divorce. He might be able to adopt a child without your knowledge.

ANN P.—You can see the new law dealing with beauty parlors by inquiring at the Public Library, Thirteenth and Olive streets, for the Session Acts (Laws of Missouri, 1935). The complete law is found on page 240. It is lengthy to quote it in answer to your many questions.

Worthy of Permanent Investment

Three important points should be considered in choosing the Receiver to serve you over a term of years. First of all you want—

Performance
There is no better way to judge this than by your own ears. Listen to the faithful Stromberg-Carlson reproduction of broadcast programs. Test the loud speaker volume and the crystal-clear tone as the music pours in from distant stations. Note the ease with which nearby stations can be cut out or cut in.

Then you want—Appearance
Your own eyes will convince you best in this regard. The workmanship on the beautiful Stromberg-Carlson Solid Mahogany and American Walnut cabinets, with their handsome dials makes them suitable companions for the finest furniture.

Lastly you want—
Performance
Here your common sense must come into play. Stromberg-Carlson, for over 30 years, has been making voice transmission and voice reception apparatus which has stood the exacting tests of the great telephone-public utilities. Radio Receivers and the Telephone are intimately related; they both electrically reproduce sound. Stromberg-Carlson telephone experience is behind the stability of performance of Stromberg-Carlson Radio Receivers.

The Divine Lady

E. BARRINGTON

"The Divine Lady" is the story, partly fiction but largely based on fact, of Lady Emma Hamilton, the Englishwoman of lovely birth who became one of the best known and most talked about women in all Europe.

CHAPTER FORTY-FOUR.

TIME is long when one waits, however one may control oneself, and though she sat at first resolutely, presently she was pacing up and down, quicker and quicker as the pulses beat faster in her brain.

What was that? A cheer in the distance—the screaming foreign cheer she had ridiculed with Nelson. It came nearer; it gained volume. Yes, the people were screaming like mad. Naples was yelling for joy. For what? For what?

She rushed to the windows. Two uniformed young men were walking, swiftly, steadily to the Embassy, looking neither to the right nor left. Whatever the cheers came from it was not from any words of theirs. They spoke neither to each other nor to any one else, and still the crowd ran after them, yelling, cheering.

She could bear it no longer. She flew to the entrance where many of the Embassy servants, men and women, had assembled. And as the officers neared it, she stood there, white and strained to receive them, her hands clasped upon her fluttering heart.

"What is it?" she asked with her pale lips but could get out no word.

They knew her. Hoste and Capel had both shared her hospitality. They waved back the crowd at the gates, and came running lightly up the approach.

"Madam, a great, a glorious victory. The French Fleet annihilated."

And as the words left Hoste's lips, some strain seemed to snap in her. She flung up her arms and fainted dead away, falling cruelly on the marble steps before them.

They thought they had killed her. They carried her between them into the long cool room of so many agitations and Sir William was awaked and came down, trembling, incredulous. "Thank God," he said, when they told him, and even then they could scarcely tell it in. He ran and announced it from the steps of the Embassy while Emma still lay in her deathlike swoon, and the populace dispersed, running also shouting to carry the news to every corner of the city. Then and only then, he devoted himself to her, and saw her faint eyelids flutter, and the pale rose dawn again in lip and cheek.

She was badly bruised from the fall. But what of that? Joy is a great physician, and presently she was sitting up, propped on cushions with the two eager young men raining their story upon her in reply to her passionate questions. Oh, joy of joy, glory of glories! Could she write to Nelson? Yes—for they must stay three days and then rejoin him with the utmost speed. But she must take them out to Caserta—the Queen must hear. His? Faint! She repelled the thought with indignation. Not an hour, not a minute must be lost. "My cloak—my hat! Order the carriage!"

They could not stay here, a whirlwind would not have done that, and English flags were ordered for the carriage, and a guard for each horse's neck, and she had Sir William with the two young men get into it and were driven through the raving streets, she bowing, smiling, pointing to them with gestures of Roman pride, a younger Volturna drunk with joy, scarcely herself knowing what she said and did.

She had been censured for this. Persons of superior breeding had called it "bad taste" and certainly it was exuberant and unrestrained. But there are moments in life when taste does not appear the one thing necessary to salvation. Naples must know its savior. It must know that the slight, pale sailor of their memories had met that Apocalyptic power of Napoleon undimmed and had conquered. Rome might be in the hands of the French, but Naples was free.

So they came to Caserta and the vast Palace, Emma, leading her three men, proud as an Empress, through the immense marble halls, and up the broad, lion-guarded staircase. They were English. She was English. She would speak for them. Italy might be troubled, but the marble palaces, but England was her protector.

The Queen stood in the great cool salon, the dim sunshiny air sweet with flowers. Two ladies stood behind her. Her face was worn almost to attenuation with gnawing care and bitter anger. She had not seen Emma for some days. There had been a full since the visit of Nelson, and she had had her own sore troubles with the King over the victualing business. Now Emma approached, walking magnificently, an almost visible light encircling her.

Children's Bedtime Story

By THORNTON W. BURGESS.

Chatterer Teases Peter

People who delight in teasing seldom are to others pleasing.

—Peter Rabbit.

PETER RABBIT, having started out to find out as much as possible about his friends and neighbors of the Green Forest were making ready for the coming of winter, didn't hesitate to ask questions. Peter says that people too bashful to ask questions will never learn much. So having said goodbye to Happy Jack the Gray Squirrel, Peter hurried over to where he saw Chatterer the Red Squirrel hard at work.

"Chatterer!" cried Peter, "I know where Striped Chipmunk keeps his winter supplies and where Happy Jack keeps his, and now I want to know where you keep yours."

This was such a surprising statement and such a surprising question combined, that Chatterer actually dropped the fat hickory nut he had just picked up. "My!" he exclaimed, "what a lot you know! I would like myself to know where Striped Chipmunk keeps his supplies and where Happy Jack keeps his. You tell me, you tell me where I keep mine."

"All right," cried Peter happily. "Striped Chipmunk keeps his in several little storehouses under ground, and Happy Jack keeps part of his in a storehouse in a hollow tree, and the rest in little hiding places on the ground."

"That's nice," said Chatterer. "I suppose you can take me right straight to those storehouses and hiding places."

"No-o," said Peter slowly. "No, I can't do that."

"Why not?" demanded Chatterer. His eyes were twinkling.

"Why you see, I don't know just where they are," replied Peter.

"Excuse me," said Chatterer. "I understood you to say in the beginning that you knew where the storehouses of Striped Chipmunk and my cousin Happy Jack are. Now it appears that you don't know at all."

Peter looked foolish. "I didn't mean just what I said, or perhaps I didn't say just what I mean," he explained. "What I mean is, I know the kinds of places they store their supplies in. I know what they do with the nuts and the acorns and the seeds that they put away for the winter. Now I want to know what you do with your supplies."

"I'd love to see them," declared Peter, brightening up.

"Save them," replied Chatterer promptly.

"Yes, I know you save them," said Peter, "but how do you save them?"

"By putting them away," replied Chatterer, his eyes twinkling more than ever and his flat, red tail jerking with every word. He was enjoying himself. It was fun to tease Peter.

"I know! I know! You put them away," replied Peter. "But where do you put them? I mean what kind of places do you put them in?"

"Oh, all sorts of places," said Chatterer. "You'd be surprised to see the places I store food in."

"I'd love to see them," declared Peter, brightening up.

"So would a lot of other people," chuckled Chatterer. "I can think of several people who would like ever so much to see those storehouses. Now I've talked to you just about as long as I can. I've got too much to do to sit around gossiping. Just follow me and I'll lead you straight to the first storehouse."

"Oh, thank you," cried Peter joyfully. "That is wonderfully good of you. I've never seen one of your storehouses and I'd just love to see it."

"All right," cried Chatterer. "Come on!" He picked up the fat hickory nut, raced up a tree, and along a branch, jumped over to

I started in the small fist of a small boy with a good crop of pale-brown freckles on his nose, a reckless cap, one "knicker" that had gotten tired of holding its end up and had just let down and become a ne'er-do-well, and an honest heart.

His trouble was just that he could not tear himself away from certain terribly wonderful joys that have a power peculiarly potent on the Will-To-Go-Straight-There-And-Back-of-little-boys. So he procrastinated.

And the letter arrived in his small fist beside an open manhole wherefrom husky men thrust their heads and shouted to others on the street, at one o'clock; and it stayed there until four!

It was marked in an ardent splash of black ink, "RUSH!" Next it was given into the hands of a faithful doorman of color, in an ultra-marine blue uniform dashed with gold braid and gold buttons. It was beginning to develop a little color now itself, the letter was, a color of a pale gray, slightly mottled with a stendling of finger-prints.

And here it lingered another while, while the gentleman in the suit of ultra-marine blue held it tenderly and exclaimed in sympathy, for was he not beginning to know these envelopes, this writing? He clucked his tongue and speculated. And with him gazed in delightful accord, the grocery boy, the scrub lady, and the dog of the house. And tried to see through the envelope!

Next it visited for a moment in the excited, fluttering hand of a little maid, all a-thrill, knowing to a word almost what there MUST be within. Here it was turned over and over, and rustled, and squinted at and "ah-h-ed" over, held to the light with bated breath for the glimpse of but one wonderful word.

And when Mother got it! And for the very first time, the poor letter was in real danger of being rent asunder and made to give up its poor little words, and end its journey in the waste basket, without ever having felt the bright gaze of the lady whose heart, it was winged to. But "Mom" muttered "the young whippersnapper," and passed it on.

Again it fell into awful peril. The hands, no less, of a mocking, impudent, pantomimic vandal—the lady's young brother! And the air was thick with schemes from then on. The letter was ransomed, and the price made heavy for its delivery intact! In port at last, under the twin lighthouses of her eyes, it spent the rest of its days in a carved, painted box on the top of a lady's dresser.

—NELL BRINKLEY.

the branch of another tree, and in this way off he went through the treetops leaving Peter staring after him with such a funny, foolish look on his face. And that is as near as Peter came to seeing Chatterer's storehouse.

A Simple Cranberry. Three cups cranberries, a half cup sugar, three cups water.

Cook sugar and water slowly until they begin to thicken. Then make a dough of:

Two cups flour, two baking powder, one-half cup sugar and stir all together. Beat well yolk of one egg; add one cupful milk and one-half cup of sugar. Add to fruit mixture. Mix well and bake in well until custard is set. This is an original recipe.

Peats Everywhere. Amplemen is not confined to skirts in the Paris studios. It extends to lingerie. The newest examples have a multiplicity of little pleats on each side from the shoulders down. This gives the effect of almost skin-tight slimmers when the wearer is motionless, but in reality it gives her sufficient space to at least change her mind. Georgette is the favored material and Eclair and sunshine yellow, violet and bois de rose the favorite shades.

DO'S AND DON'TS —FOR— BUSINESS WOMEN

By NELLIE E. GARDNER

Your Life Is Your Own.

YOUR life is your own. See that no one rules it but yourself. This is the age of individual responsibility. With responsibility always should go shrewdness of judgment and power of decision.

The world will give you the credit or the blame for what you accomplish. Remembering this, go about it in a way to achieve a result of which you may be justly proud.

Of what use is an alibi, when you are faced with failure? What satisfaction is it, then, to say, "I could have made good, if other people had only let me alone!"

One of the earliest and hardest lessons for the business woman to learn, when leaving the old home roof, is that she must keep relatives in their place. This may sound harsh. But manifold experience shows it to be true.

Parents, seldom, in these days, interfere with a daughter's career. The world has moved forward a good many paces since the old way of thinking, two or three decades ago, when woman began seriously to express her yearning for a business life of her own. Fathers and mothers, with their children's welfare truly at heart, are genuinely unselfish and no longer try to balk their advancement along the lines they choose. But, oh, what a mess the uncles and the aunts and the cousins and the in-laws can make when they start to get busy!

One of the traditions inherited from early tribal days, which the modern world is wisely throwing off, is the allegiance of the child to the dominant will of the clan. Kinfolk, especially the distant and semi-near, have been responsible for more thwarted ambitions and broken hopes in youth than society would care to acknowledge!

The rare exception there is, of course, of the entire family pulling together in order that a young boy or girl may study and perfect the budding talent, or may depart to branch out in a business of his own.

But in contrast to one instance of helping, how many are there of holding back?

How frequently does some busy-mind point out to the young woman just starting out to make herself independent, that it is her duty to remain home "and look after the folks." Suppose she does make this sacrifice, remaining some place where it is impossible for her to advance to economic or personal independence, who is there to look out for her when death brings to her the utter loneliness and breaks up the dear old home?

People will be willing enough to let you work out your own life in disaster; demand the same right in pleasant work and joy.

Baked Apple Dumplings

Mix six tablespoons flour, one-half teaspoon baking powder and one-eighth teaspoon of salt together. Lightly rub in two tablespoons of butter or lard and then mix with enough water to make a smooth paste. Peel and core apples, allowing four medium size apples to this quantity of paste. Fill centers with a dab of butter rolled in sugar, with the addition of one or two currants, a grating of mixed lemon peel and a pinch of spice. Roll out the paste onto a floured board to quarter-inch thickness, cut into four rounds, wet the edges, fold over until the apples are quite covered, taking care that the edges are well joined, brush over with water, sprinkle with sugar, place on a greased baking sheet and bake for about 25 minutes. They may be boiled in cloths or nets, if a boiled dumpling is preferred. Miss Nina Bang, the first woman Danish minister, has put a ban upon the singing of the State anthem in her country, claiming it is too warlike to benefit the public good.

You Get More Than GOOD MILK When You Buy Wilson's

You get more than good milk when you buy Wilson's. You get a milk that's uniform in richness—more than twice as rich as average market milk. You get a milk that's always fresh and pure—a milk that's economical and convenient to buy and to use. And in addition to a quality milk, you get useful premiums for the blue and white Wilson's Milk labels you save.

WILSON'S MILK EVAPORATED

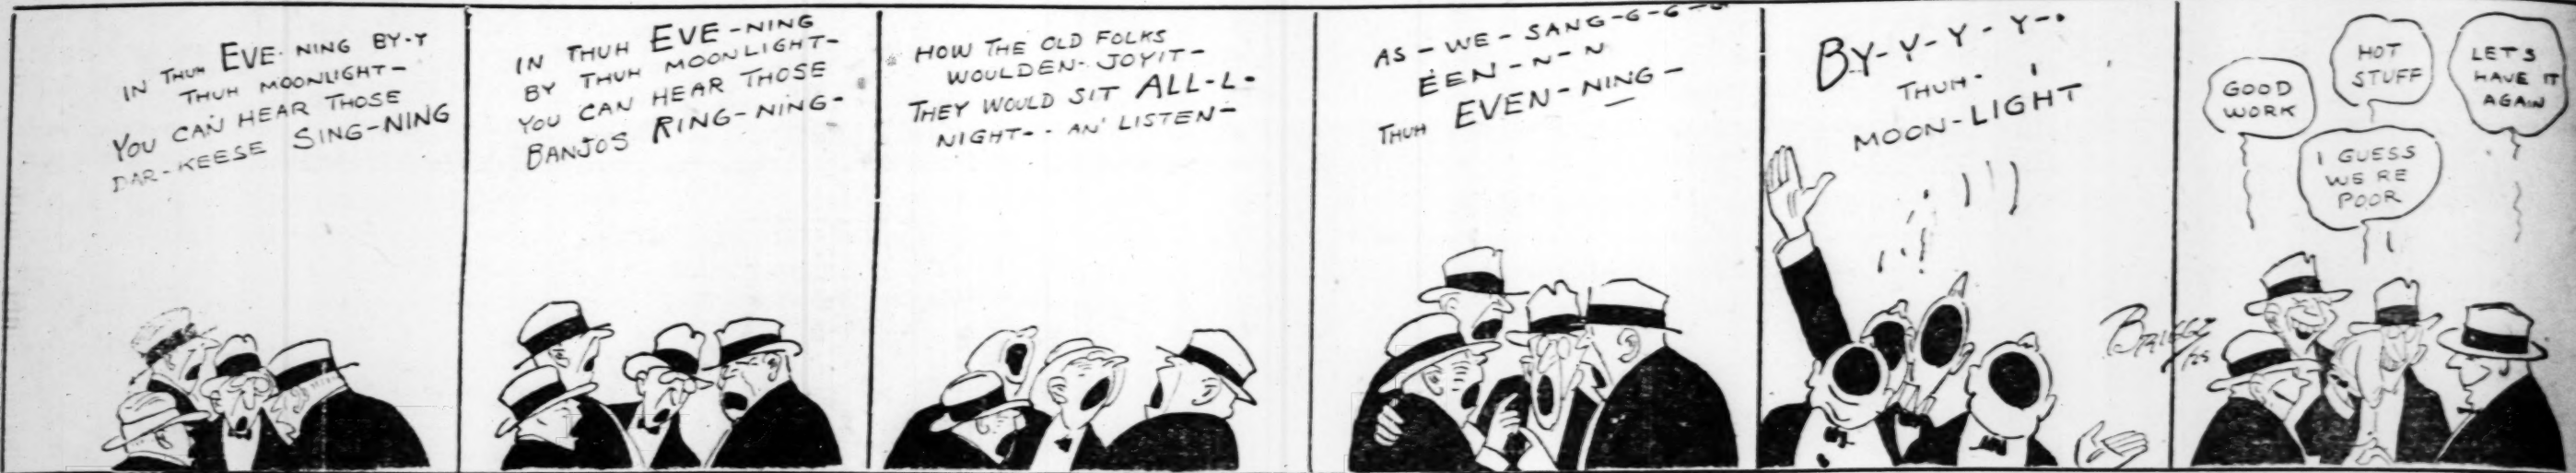

Wilson's Milk is just rich, pure country milk—collected fresh daily from dairying farms—reduced to double richness by evaporating part of the water contained in all milk. It is then sealed in airtight containers and sterilized. For all your cream needs, you use it as it comes from the can—and at less than half the cost of cream. And for all your milk needs, add an equal amount of water—(the water we remove by evaporation)—and you have milk that is richer than the legal standard for whole milk. Get a few cans of Wilson's Milk from your grocer today. You'll like it.

Saving the blue and white Wilson's Milk labels is just like saving money. Come to our premium room and see the many useful things that you may get with Wilson's Milk labels—silverware, glassware, chinaware, cooking utensils, towelings and many other articles—some for only 30 labels.

The Man on the Sandbox by L. Adams

THE RIVER DES PERES. COME from haunt of cool and fern. Through grassy leas I chatter And sparkle out among the fern. My typhoid germs to scatter.

By thirty hills I hurry down, Or slip between the ridges; By twenty thorps and then a town With temporary bridges.

I burble over slimy stones, While everybody knocks me, And votes eleven million bones. To straighten out and box me.

I scatter perfume as I go, To join the brimming river, For odors come and odors go, But I smell on forever.

TOO TRUE.

The man on the sandbox says no doubt a large majority of the people who voted for the $57,000,000 bond issue had the River des Peres uppermost in their minds. And they can still see it being boxed in their minds.

The man on the sandbox says if you like 'em hot, Florida is a great summer resort.

Dwight Davis of St. Louis has been made Secretary of War. No doubt he appreciates the compliment, even if there 'aint no war.

However, if anybody thinks Mr. Davis isn't a good Secretary of War just start something.

The football world series is played on paper. Hence there are no ticket scandals or fatalities.

The man on the sandbox says he has noticed that battling slumps and Walter Johnson have a habit of traveling hand in hand.

TRIED TO CONCEAL

Timekeeper for Engineering Company Placed Envelope With Money on Floor of Auto.

TRAILED FROM BANK
BY HOLDUP MEN

His Machine Is Crowded to the Curb by Another Car Containing Three Men.

Three robbers in an automobile today crowded the coupe of Clarence Henneke, a timekeeper for the Widmer Engineering Co., to the curb on Gravois avenue, near Eighteenth street, and one of them took an envelope containing a $1900 payroll from the floor of Henneke's machine.

Henneke, who is 25 years old, and resides at 4953 Eichleberger avenue, had visited construction work his company is doing at the Chaudron Electric Co., 4932 Kingsmen avenue, to learn the amount of pay money needed, and went to the Lafayette-South Side Bank for the cash. He thought him would not look on the floor, so he placed the envelope there.

One man leaped from the robbers' car at 10:45 o'clock with a drawn revolver, as Henneke stopped, and opened the coupe door. He seized the money and was back in the car with his two companions before they could get out, as they started to do. The robbers' car disappeared to the west. It bore a license which was stolen last week from the automobile of Dr. William A. Lewis, 5379 Pershing avenue.

The Widmer Engineering Co. office is in the Laclede Gas Building. This was the thirtieth payroll robbery here this year, bringing the total stolen in such thefts to $13,689.

4 ROBBERS WITH $45,000
BREAK WINDOW TO ESCAPE

Stay in International Harvester Plant All Night to Seize Payroll.

CHICAGO, Oct. 15.—Four robbers, two of them masked, were forced to break out of the International Harvester Co.'s West Fullman plant today after they had taken a $45,000 payroll from three subordinate officers and four employees.

The robbers apparently had hidden overnight in the plant and appeared suddenly when an armored car had brought the money and the office door had been locked. After getting the payroll the robbers were compelled to break a window to get out. They did not reply to a number of shots fired by John F. Krausner, the company's auditor, but sped away in an auto, mobile.

Iowa Youth Center on Team Despite Attraction.

CENTER POINT, Ia., Oct. 17.—Although Beryl Hunter, 19 years old, has a cork leg, he is a regular member of the Center Point High-School football team. He plays center. Coach Alfred Kline said the boy is a good player, that he makes his tackles along with the rest of the squad and asks no favors because of his handicap.

"He is a game youngster," Coach Kline declared. "and I use him at center because he is the best player we have for the position." Last year Beryl played on the basketball team.

ANOTHER STATE BANK CLOSED

Clearance Savings Institution Had $301,000 in Deposits.

JEFFERSON CITY, Oct. 17.—The Clearance Savings Bank of Clarence, Shelby County, was ordered closed today by the board of directors. It was announced at the State Finance Department. The institution had approximately $420,000 total resources.

R. E. Shelby and C. L. Stout, State bank examiners, are in charge.

According to the bank's last statement, as of June 30, it had $40,000 capital, $15,000 surplus, approximately $301,700 in deposits, loans totaling $264,500 and $17,700 bills payable. W. H. Lewis was president and H. S. Maupin cashier.

Duncan Sisters Sued for Taxes.

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 17.—Bonnie and Vivian Duncan, actresses, were sued today for $2500 on their 1934 incomes, says the government in a lien filed here.
